Allison -
It's been nice to know you in 3rd period and hope to see you at Sierra. Love,
Chris Dunlap

Allison:
Hey friend.
Just (yes)! Now
you figured it out.
You better have a fun time or else. I know you will. Be totally crazy
this summer and live it up.
Love always
Trac Male

HEY, NELLIE!!!
CRASH!!! It was kind of an exciting year! Too bad you spent half of it in the hospital. It made us a lot more popular, though. But it was pretty imbarrassing when you kept pulling down your pants so the guys could kiss your Boo Boo. Without help, I've had a lot of fun these last few years but I'm glad they're over!!
Stay in touch and we'll do something over the summer. I hope you and Kreig-Kreig? yes, Kreig) make it good in life. You are (to hell with this pen) one of my close friends (guilt trip) so we have to do something this summer together.
Stay in touch!

Ali-
You crazy girl you! I had a great time in all of our (2)
classes this year.
It was great talking to you & hearing (not telling) dirty jokes!! ☺
I hope Lisa still has her ears! I hope you have a great summer with Kreigy
& maybe we can double.
Maybe even we could see Chong & Cheech!!
You're really great & I will always remember the fun times we have had.

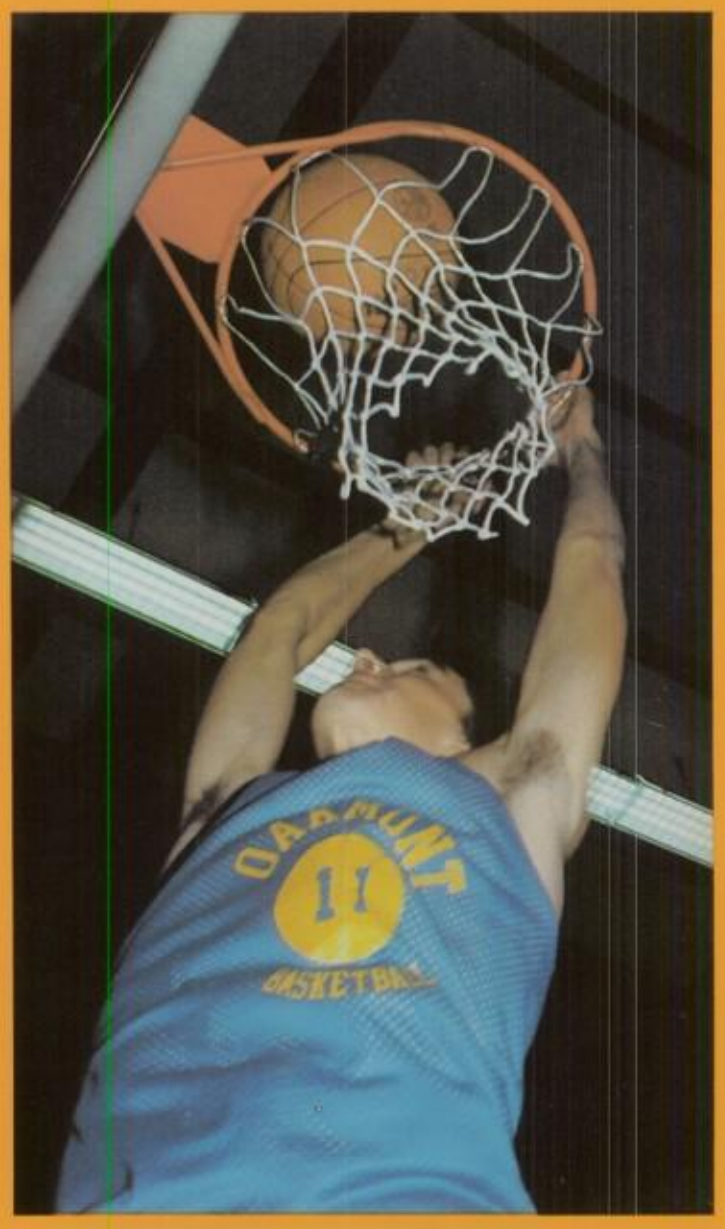
Because of fast-paced life styles, many things escape our perception, things which could be brought into sharper focus if people would just slow down and take a closer look.



Everyday happenings take on new perspectives when one views them from different angles.

In order to gain a more accurate picture of Oakmont students, one must not only look at their school involvement, but also at their home activities.

Just as a movie characterizes one aspect of life, so this book focuses in on the people and happenings here on the Oakmont campus.

By taking a closer look at all things, one can obtain a greater appreciation of life itself.

Alley!

It's been great having you in typing class (you know, we never typed!) I'm always going to remember your jokes (funny ones, and not so funny ones + gross!) I missed you when you were gone so long because of yer wreck! I'm just glad you came back!! Thanks for being such a super friend! Take care of yourself, and keep in touch. Love,

Allison,

Accounting was a great class! I can't believe we passed it — considering we cheated the last chapter! All we ever did was talk about ~~everything~~ — your jokes — I couldn't hear! Too bad I never got to see Out w/ Greg! I hope you keep your love life straight! Take care — I'll always remember you — Love ya Lots,

Lisa

We have pictured those things, events and people at Oakmont that may have remained hidden from your view, but you are the one who must take that closer look.

Wagner Selected President, Organizes Class Activities

Boasting the largest enrollment of any class on campus, the 408 freshmen had a great year overall for their first experience with high school life.

Homecoming was the first challenge facing the class of '84. Many frosh entered into Spirit Week activities with enthusiasm, especially on class day by dressing up as their favorite athletes. Although it didn't win any prizes, the float represented many hours of work.

Despite the problems of getting started in a new, larger school environment, the frosh must be given credit for contributing to the student body throughout the year.

Soph Class Earns Money For Junior Prom Through Fund-Raising Concessions

Unification—the only word to describe the class of 83! Under the supervision of Mr. Greg Holmes, Mrs. Pauline Fountain, and Mr. Russ Krieger, this class showed strong leadership from the officers, who planned every activity well in advance.

By dressing up like the fifties, the sophomores depicted their theme "Push 'Em Way Back" for class day competition during Spirit Week. They also reached out with spirit at the Homecoming rally to capture the spirit jug.

Fund raising for the prom was the main goal of the class. They accomplished this by working at football and basketball concessions throughout the year.

Involvement was a major factor of this active class. Everything they set out to do they completed and the results proved to be impressive.

1. THE JUNIOR VARSITY team awaits the official call on the last play. 2. SOPHOMORE HEIDI FEIST asks her advisor about the size of the Viking insignia. 3. Reaching Out For Victory Earns Juniors 2nd Place In Homecoming Competition

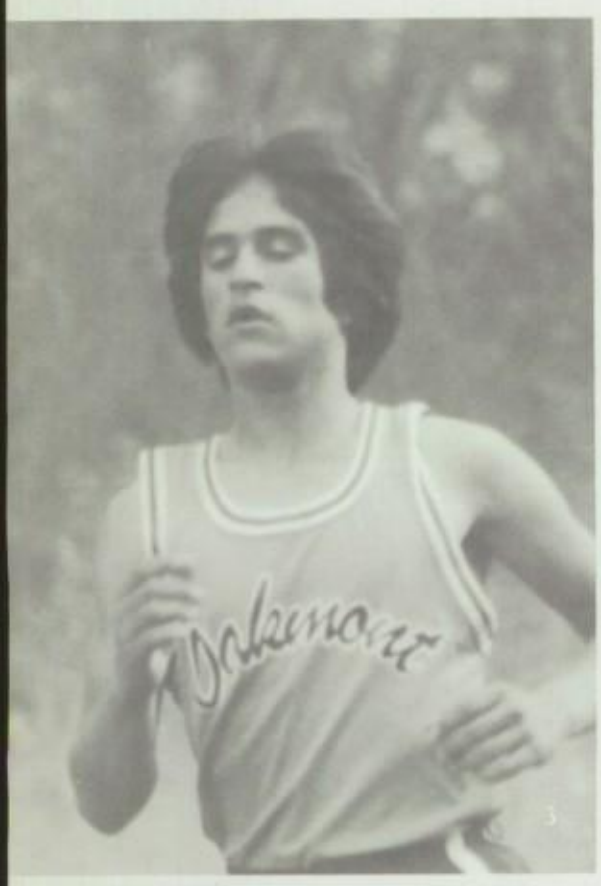
The class of 1982 shows great promise in their plans for the future. As class advisor Mrs. Lory Butcher says, "The class has a lot of enthusiasm, and they are able to carry out their plans." One of the strong points of this class was their concern for the welfare of the school. Many of their projects have been successful, such as the talent show and a Christmas flower sale. The juniors won second place in Homecoming competition with the theme of "Reach Out to Victory."

Although the class did not win many rally competitions, it did achieve its goal of encouraging class participation. The effort of many individuals working together resulted in a productive junior class.



1. JACKIE HALDEMAN FINDS that "bugging" her friends is fun, but her friends consider her a "pest." 2. JUNIOR STEVE CHRISTENSEN glances suspiciously at the crearor of a rude remark during his lunch period. 3. CROSS COUNTRY RUNNER Frank Gomez has shown that dererminarion and extremely exhausting workouts pave the way to success as he runs for the third year with the ream. 4. JUNIOR RANDY BOISA is proud of this western-style hat that he shows off between classes on Hat and Sunglasses day. 5. JUNIORS GINA DONOVAN and Bob Bonnici show their concern for others by assisting the Service Club with their highly successful food drive.

SENIORS

The class of 1981 was a very active class. Their freshman year they won the Spirit Jug several times. Their sophomore year they had a talent show which was very successful, and they also went to Marriott's. Their Junior Prom was another one of their memorable events. The theme for the Prom was "Two Tickets to Paradise."

The class of 1981 won the Homecoming and decoration competition all four years. The theme for the freshman float was "Valhalla," which means Viking Haven. Their sophomore was "Oakmont-mania." Their junior theme was "Our Spirit is Sky High." This year's theme was "Reach Out with Spirit and Pride." They won the Homecoming rally for three years. They won more rallies over their four years at Oakmont than any other class in Oakmont's history.

The senior class got more people involved in school activities as well as outside activities than any other classes. They worked in the community helping people, and they also put a lot of work into Oakmont.

There were many people in the senior class who were very active in organizing things. They all agreed that the class of 1981 was one of the best classes ever to graduate from Oakmont.

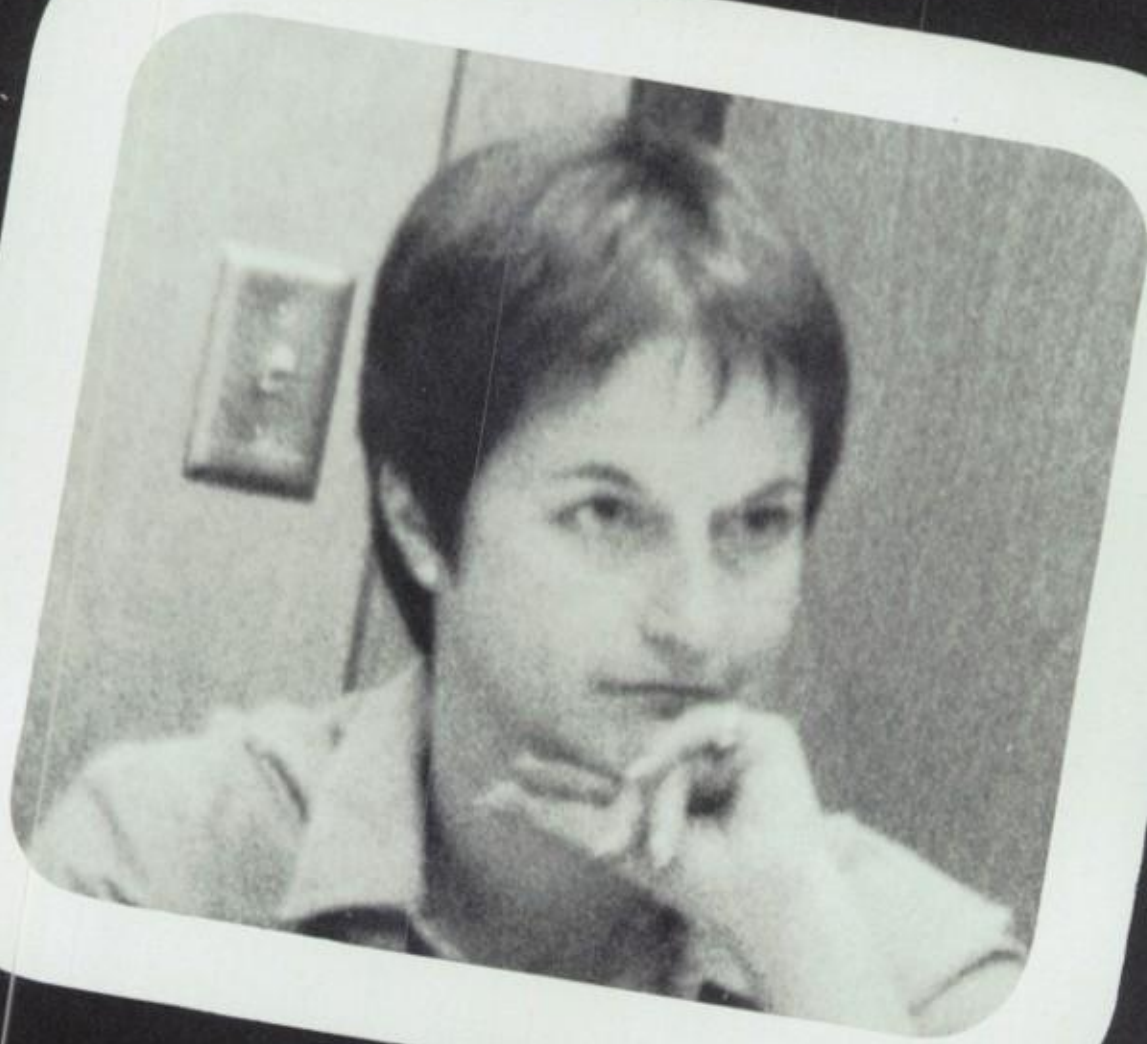
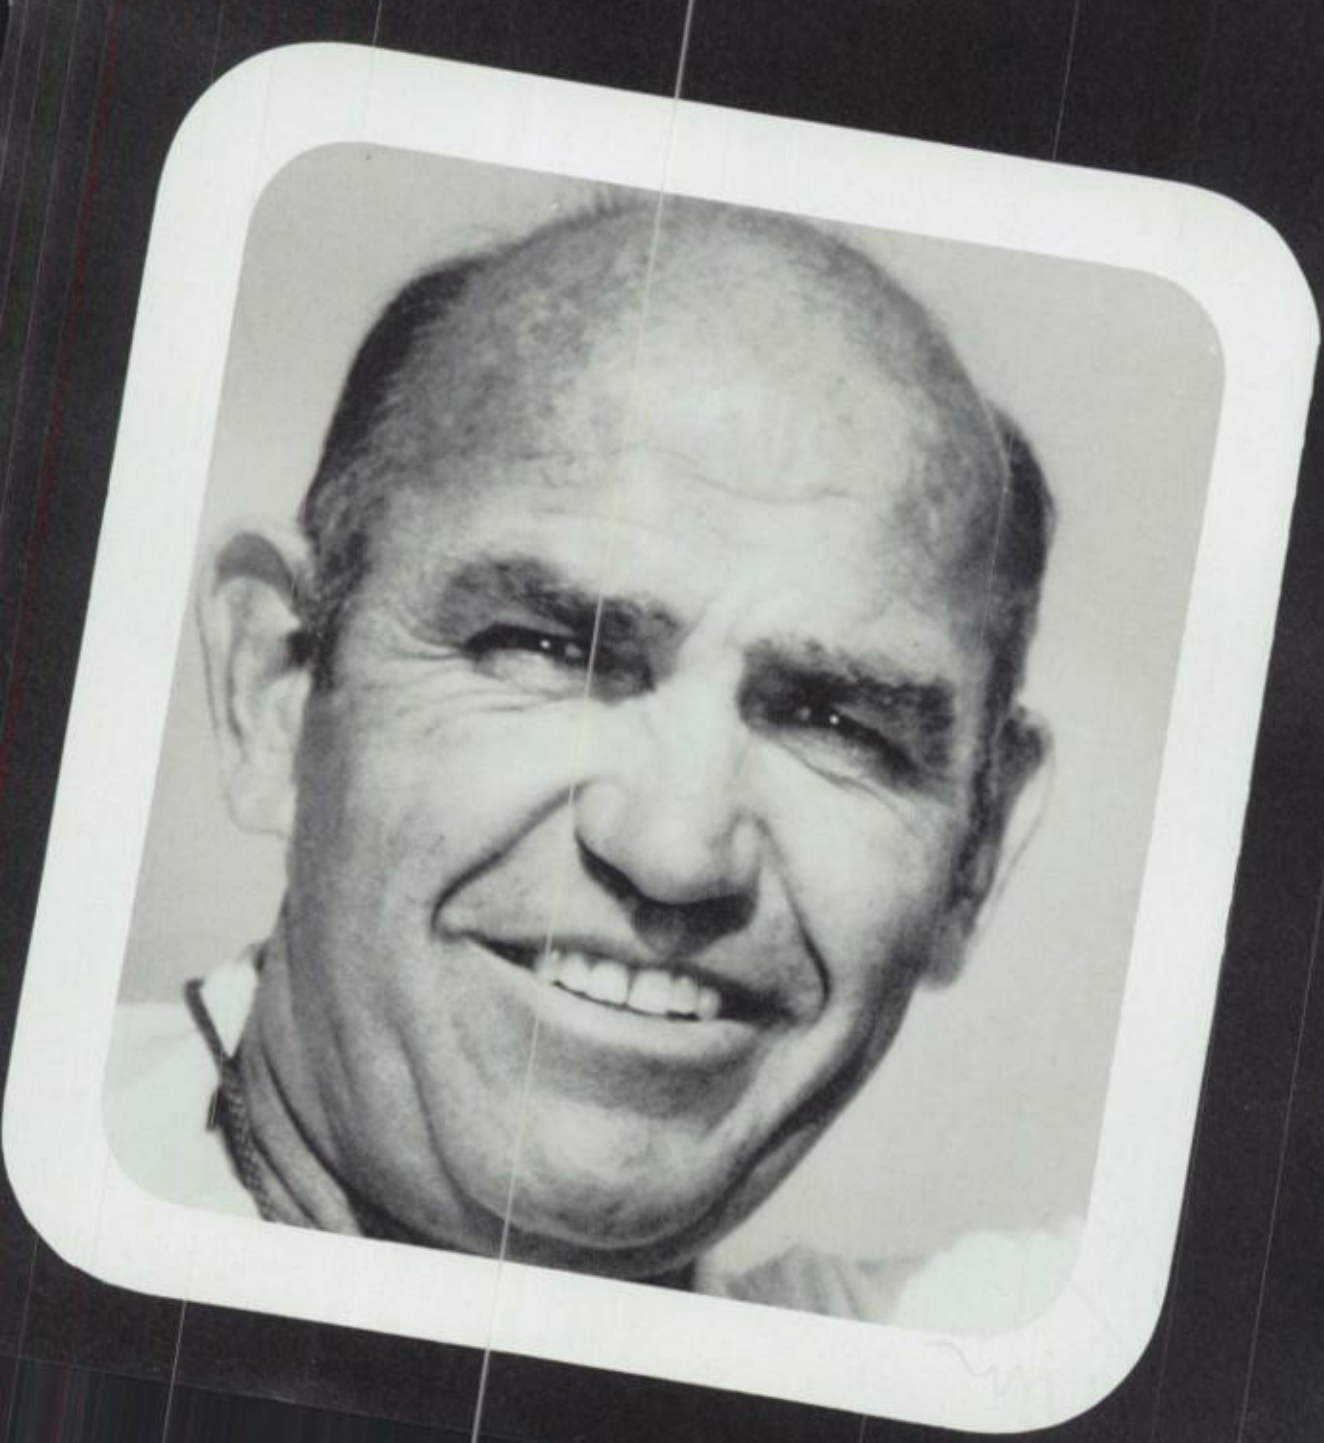
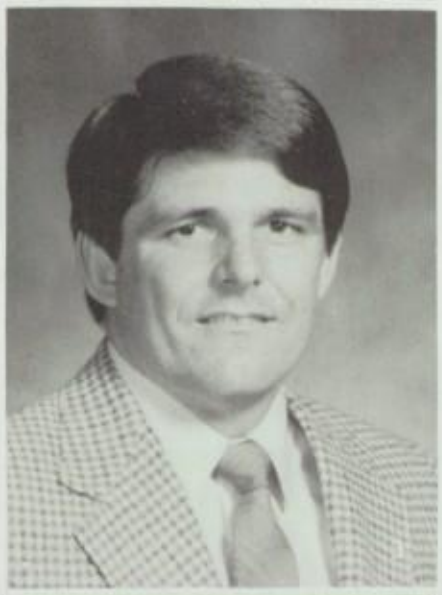
FACULTY





Staff Experiences Changes During 1981 School Year



Oakmont High School has made some changes in its teaching staff this year. Mr. Bill Vanderbout and Mrs. Dorie Dowell returned to Oakmont this year after teaching at Roseville High for two years. There were two changes in the music department staff, with Mr. John Ostrenson replacing Miss Carolynn Baker as choral director, and Mr. Ritchey Hodge replacing Mr. Tom Blackburn as the band instructor.

Administrative staff changes were also made this fall. Mr. Dick Marsh is now the assistant principal, and Mr. Pat Godwin and Mr. Alec Ostrom are the deans. Mr. Tom Riley also returned from Roseville to serve as a counselor. These changes helped Oakmont run more efficiently.

A few of the faculty's goals were to improve attendance and to create a closer relationship between the students and teachers. The new "Viking Pride" program was one way of doing these things. The program rewarded students who demonstrated improvement in their scholastic achievement, attendance and behavior.

Last spring the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC) evaluated Oakmont, making several suggestions for improvement. The faculty started work this year and will continue to work on these suggestions. Oakmont received six points, the highest score possible, which means that OHS has a well-established teaching and administrative staff.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Newsworthy Events From The Campus And The City

As the year pressed on, Cable Vision, the cable television company that was obligated to build a studio on the OHS campus, continued to postpone the date of its installation; the project was finally completed in the spring. Ben Woods handed over the student body presidency in January to John Sinclair after one of Oakmont's hottest campaigns ever. The Parent's Club Carnival had another successful run in April.

The beginning of the year brought many changes and improvements to Oakmont. School opened in September with 1,480 students, continuing its steady increase in enrollment. The cafeteria surprised everyone by not selling any junk food during lunch in order to comply with the new state law. The annual magazine sale raised $8,000, which helped purchase the sorely-needed stage curtains. The Reach Out program was introduced to the school by Student Council and the Reach Out Committee.

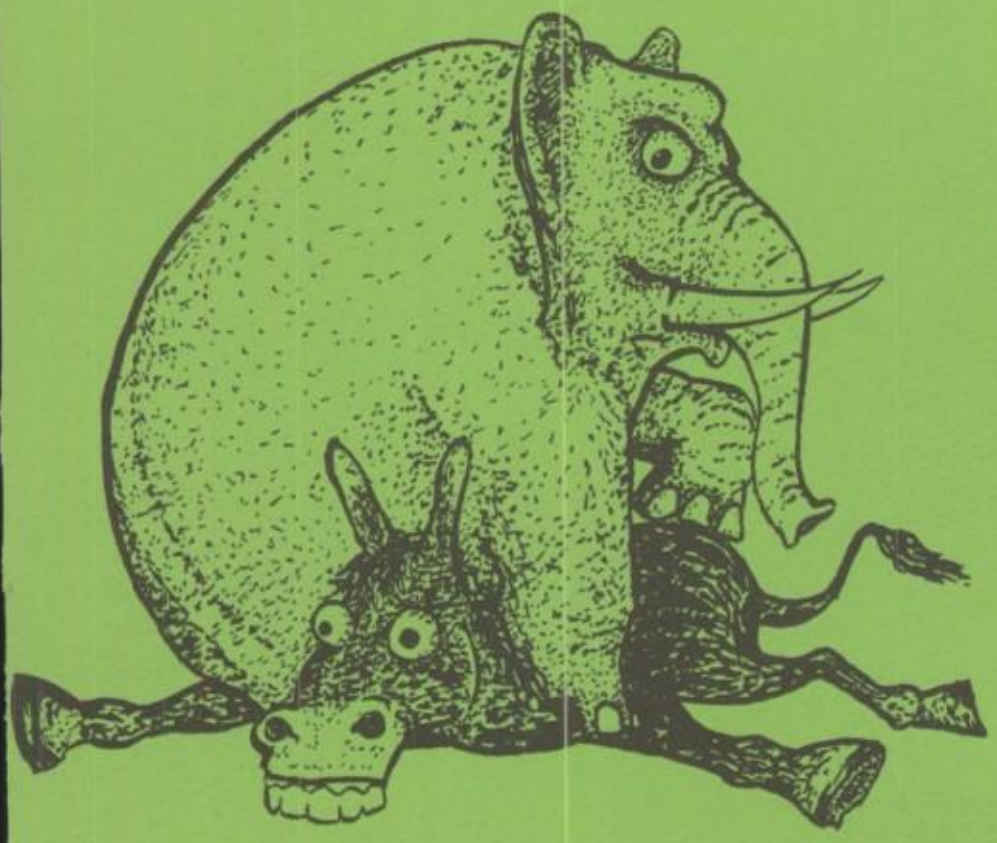
The year saw many employee changes and replacements. Mr. Ritchey Hodge took over the Oakmont band, and Mr. Pat Godwin and Mr. Alec Ostrom were named as deans, replacing Mrs. Mary Kostakis, who retired, and Mr. Richard Marsh, who was promoted to assistant principal. Mr. Glenn Poole resigned as athletic director, and Mr. Godwin assumed that position. In March Mrs. Mary Kees, secretary to the principal, resigned her position after serving two Oakmont principals in the course of six years. In addition, more and more teachers began to work partime rather than full time, swelling the number of faculty members to an all-time high.

1. A MEMBER OF the Army's canine corp and his specially-trained dog demonstrate the attack capabilities used in defending against intruders. 2. BUSINESS TEACHER MIKE Cattuzzo was one of the many faculty members who turned out to help support the junior class at the Free-throw-a-thon in March. The funds that were raised went toward the Junior Prom.

Some of the largest stories involving the Roseville and surrounding areas regard the explosive population growth. The Placer County population increased 47.1% to 114,222 people. Arrival of companies that manufacture computer components and provide automated services, such as Hewlett-Packard and Shugart, are both the cause and result of the increasing population.

Hewlett-Packard, for example, will invest a total of $91 million in facilities to be built on a 500 acre site off of Highway 65 north of Roseville. The first building of the complex is due for completion this month. Shugart will soon open an $18 million plant within the city limits.

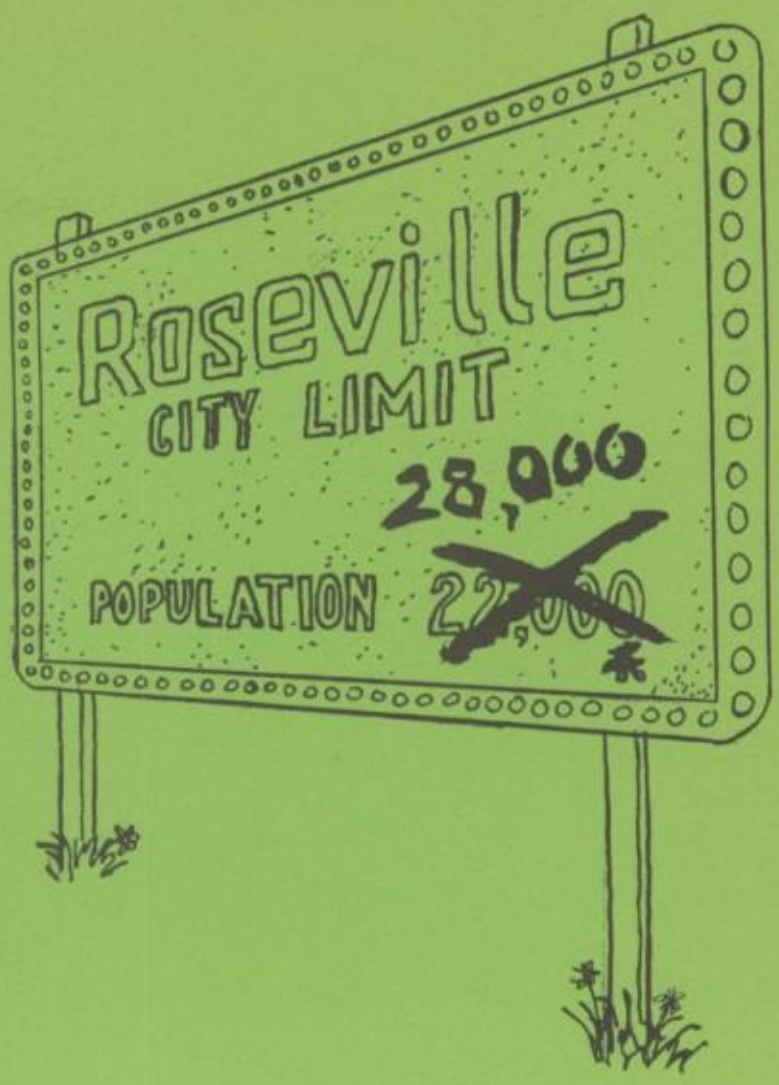
To accommodate the growth in the area, the Roseville Telephone Company, the 21st largest company out of the 1,500 independent ones in the Bell System, expanded at the cost of $7.7 million. The State Parks and Recreation Department has plans for a $2.6 million expansion of facilities at Beal's Point, which includes 50 overnight campsites, a new beach, and a 450-car parking lot. In anticipation of the increased need for patient care, the Kaiser-Permanente Foundation has already spent $5 million to expand upon its new $15.7 million out patient clinic. The business people of Folsom Lake formed the fifth Chamber of Commerce in South Placer County. After a $10,000 investment, Roseville High School finally received its stadium stands.



Eight people were killed when three cars collided on Highway 65 in the worst accident in Placer County history. The largest fire for 1980-1981 school year charred 1,200 acres east of Highway 65. Fire again took its toll by causing $200,000 damage to the Petite Cherie clothing store, Fashionable Flea clothing store and Fleet Feet athletic store.

The Roseville City Council tried unsuccessfully to halt the showing of the violent, sexually-explicit movie, "Caligula," at the Harding Plaza Cinema.

Two sporting events that are particularly interesting: Bobby LeDoux, 14, hit two holes-in-one at Roseville Rolling Greens Golf Course on one round of 9 holes; and Todd Steele, senior here at Oakmont, played the sport orfball well enough to make the US team tour of Europe.



In an upset victory, Republican Gene Chappie defeated incumbent Democrat Harold "Bizz" Johnson in his bid for the 1st District Congressional seat. Roseville City Councilman George Buljan replaced Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley as President of the League of California Cities.

Concluding a 3-month improvement plan, Lincoln and Placer County officials succeeded in pressuring Governor Brown and state legislators into returning California Highway Patrol personnel to Highway 65 after an 8-year absence. In addition to the returned patrols, a daylight safety section was established.

Newsworthy Events From The Campus And The City

Placer County appears to be abounding in money and also appears to be exposed to the malevolent aspects of its usage.

According to the tax assessment rolls inspected by a county assessor, the total property value in Placer County is $3.4 billion. Twice in two consecutive months, the Placer County Sheriff's Department seized marijuana worth a total street value of $8 million from two farms near Lincoln.

And That's The Way It Is

SHOCK

War

Sixty percent of the world's oil traffic was halted when a 10-month skirmish between Iraq and Iran over the Shatt-al Arab waterway broke into open warfare when Iraq attacked Iranian oil and airfields and Iran retaliated. Each nation attempted to cripple the other's economy, but neither was able to make much progress. By the end of October, however, Iraq held claim to the port city of Khuram Shahr in Iran's oil-rich province of Zhuzistan.

Rebellion

Angry Polish workers at the Lenin shipyard in Gdansk went on strike, culminating two months of labor turmoil and, in a political development unprecedented in countries under the influence of the Soviet Union, won unheard of concessions. These included the right to form independent trade unions. the right to strike, the abolition of government censorship, and the release of all political prisoners. After granting the concessions, veteran Communist party head Edward Gierek was replaced by security affairs chief, Stanislaw Kania.

Destruction

Europe's worst earthquake in decades ravaged southern Italy, killing 3,000. In Nevada, 89 people died in hotel fires. The fire at the MGM Grand Hotel killed 84 and injured more than 500, and a fire in the nearby Las Vegas Hilton claimed five and injured about 140 people. In addition to the destruction which caused the loss of life, an explosive left by extortionists in Harvey's Hotel and Casino in Lake Tahoe detonated and severly damaged the hotel.

Captivity

Anguish and suspense over the fate of the American hostages held by Iranian militants weighed heavily on the minds of the country as economic and political sanctions were imposed by the U.S. and the European Economic community. UN efforts to mediate and an aborted rescue mission which cost the lives of eight commandos failed to bring the hostages home. Finally, just hours before the inauguration of Ronald Reagan, the hostages boarded an Algerian plane and flew out of Iran after 444 days of captivity. Upon arrival in the United States, the hostages were given a hero's welcome by their relieved and joyous fellow countrymen, a celebration that included a ticker-tape parade through New York City.

A New Beginning

The presidential election dominated national news from the summer through November and saw an incumbent president under siege. Jimmy Carter overcame attempts to dump him from the Democratic ticket in favor of his liberal opponent, Senator Ted Kennedy, or a list of other more "electable" Democrats. Amidst Republican euphoria concerning the GOP's prospects in November, Ronald Reagan chose George Bush as his running mate. John Anderson bolted from his fellow Republicans to run as an independent candidate. The passing months saw a fading of Representative Anderson's popularity while the polls showed Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter in a head-to-head race. A last-minute debate, staged one week before the elction, was the determining factor for many undecided voters and gave the Republican challenger a landslide victory. A Republican Senate and many GOP candidates at every level were swept in on Reagan's coat tails.

President Reagan proclaimed that America was ready for a "new beginning" as a conservative spirit overtook the nation. To attack continuing inflation and recession, he introduced an austere budget that reversed the trends of forty years by cutting deeply into social programs. He took a hard line toward the Soviet Union and showed more tolerance toward authoritarian regimes who supported the US. With a movie star in the White House, the Washington social scene came alive. Famous entertainers and clothing designers frequented Washington as jelly beans became chic. But as we know, a tragic note was added to these happenings when President Reagan was shot in front of the Washington Hilton Hotel on March 30.

The deaths of celebrities during this year have saddened us all. Cancer claimed the life of veteran movie star Steve McQueen in a remote Mexican hospital. Peter Sellers, famous for his character, Inspector Clouseau, died in London of a heart attack. One of America's first sex symbols, Mae West, died of natural causes at the grand old age of 87. Colonel Harland Sanders, founder of Kentucky Fried Chicken, passed away, as did George Meany, perennial director of the AFL-CIO. Shock, followed by world-wide mourning, came with the news that former Beatle John Lennon was gunned down in front of his New York apartment.

Movies are a popular pastime for many people, especially tennagers. The movies are a great place to take a date, to spend an evening with friends, or even to go to with your family.

Taking dates to the movies has long been an American custom. It's a good place to have a nice time, especially at a scary show or a love story so you can cuddle up to your partner. Whatever kind of movie is playing, you're likely to have a good time because movies are a pleasant way to spend an evening.

On a Friday or Saturday night a good place to go with your friends is to the movies. Theatres are usually crowded on these two nights, so if you and your friends want to meet people, it's easy to do.

The movies are also a nice place for your family to go. They're a good place for your family to share an evening together. Movies have been around a long time because they are enjoyed by all kinds of people all over the world. Movies let people get together and have an evening of fun or make them think.

Television has increasingly become one of the most popular forms of home entertainment. Recent technological developments have revived the use of the "boob tube" with the invention of video games, video recorders and Home Box Office (HBO).

One of the most popular uses of the TV screen is to play video games. When there is nothing good to watch on television, you and your friends can compete in any number of contests, battles, and games.

Video recorders, although an expensive accessory, are becoming more popular all the time. They help solve the problems of which show to watch when every channel has a good program. It is also a boon to teachers who can film educational programs to show in the classroom.

HBO is another television favorite. It brings first-run films in to your home, uncut and without commercials. Although it is expensive initially, HBO movies are a lot cheaper than going to the theatre all the time. You can enjoy theatre movies in the comfort of your own home, which a lot of people prefer.

No matter what you have, video games, a video recorder, or HBO, television is still a good form of home entertainment.

Rock and roll once again thrived here at Oakmont and abroad during the 1980-81 school year. Concert T-shirts made frequent appearances, and rock-and-roll graffiti continued to plague the custodians. This evidence of rock enthusiasm is visible all over the U.S. with Oakmont being a mere microcosm of the happenings around the nation.

A rock form known as "punk rock" has become exceedingly popular here in the U.S. after originating in Europe several years ago. Surprisingly enough, punk rock managed to surpass the fading "new wave" in popularity this past school year. Although new wave, which includes such groups as Blondie and Devo, was expected to become extremely popular in the 80's, it has, instead, made an about face and declined in popularity over this past year. Contrary to popular belief, new wave and punk rock are not the same thing. New wave is a cleaner, Am-type music, while punk rock is a rebellious type of music blending "fuzzed-out" guitars with "raspy" lead vocals to form songs which make a statement.

Another form of rock to come on the scene this past year is high energy "Pop" rock. This includes such bands as Lover Boy, Donny Irir, 707, the Babys, and even older groups such as Queen and REO Speedwagon. Although the type of music is relatively new on the scene, some of the bands have been around for many years and simply changed their format in recent years. The music manages to combine the traditional "heavy" rock guitar sound with keyboards and, most recently, synthesizers. Since this form has come on so strong in just the past year it shows great potential for future years.

After the number of top-billed rock concerts in Sacramento last year, one can deduce that Sacramento is not a popular city to play at because of its proximity to the Bay Area. Although such big name stars as Jackson Browne and Heart performed here in Sacramento this past year, Sacramento rock fans are being forced to make the 100-mile trek to San Francisco or Oakland in order to see their favorite performers. Despite the lack of top rock bands in past years, Sacramento did have several excellent performances by bands such as Molly Hatcher, REO Speedwagon, and Pat Travers during this past year.

New Rock Band Awaits Future Employment

Several months ago the new rock and roll band called Double Take was formed by Oakmont students. After a few changes in organization, the band finally got together to play rock and some new wave. Double Take's songs are based on the Babys, The Cars, and Tom Petty and the Heartbrakers. The band usually practices four times a week to perfect their sound. On drums are Kyle Biehle and Lynn Good. Bob Statham sings lead vocals and plays the supplementary keyboards. Lead guitarist for the band is Bruce Maeda, and Don Price is on bass.

Double Take eventually hopes to play for dances, nightclubs and concerts. For the time being, they'll be working on getting their material together so they can find work this summer.

Another pro athlete may be in the making at Oakmont. Senior Steve Moody practices racquetball every day for at least two hours to improve his techniques. Steve took lessons when he was thirteen and grew to like the game instantly. Steve practiced hard, and he improved so much that he began to enter tournaments. Steve has won many tournaments, but there are three major ones that really have made him well known within the sport. In the Rollingwood Junior Tournament he placed first and won a trophy. his second big win was the Chico Junior Tournament where he again placed first and won fifty dollars. Steve was in the semi-finals of the Kangaroo Courts tournament at press time, having already won one trophy for his wins.

After high school Steve still wants to be active in racquetball, so he might try to get a partime job as a pro and teach lessons.

REAL PEOPLE

Almost every American girl dreams of becoming a beauty queen, and freshman Gina Dorigo is already on her way. At twelve years old, Gina entered her first beauty contest, the 78-79 Pre-Teen Miss Citrus Heights in which she finished first. Later that year she entered two more contests; in one of them she made it to the top ten finalists, and in the other, she placed third as Teen Miss of Citrus Heights.

Her future plans are to enter the Teen Miss Beauty Pageant this September in Fresno.

Freshman Takes First Place In Pre-Teen Miss Beauty Pageant

Boxing is a very competitive sport. One needs full concentration and top physical conditioning in order to be a champ. Sophomore Tim Robinson began boxing at age seven when his dad first got him interested, and it has since then become his favorite sport. At age ten Tim started winning major marches. He beat three state champs and has won two Junior Olympics titles. To get into shape prior to a match, usually two months before the contest, Tim runs four to five miles a day, shadow boxes, punches the speed bag, jumps rope and does regular exercises.

Although Tim has ended his career in boxing for right now, he may decide to take it up again in the near future.

It is an unusual occurrence to be a high school sophomore and to have a major role in a Sierra College play, but Lisa Statham became one of the fortunate few to be able to participate in Little Women last March/April. After an audition and many interviews with the director, Lisa was chosen to play Beth, a younger sister of Louisa May Alcott, the main character.

To help with her acting, Lisa has taken several acting lessons, has worked under professional directors with her speech, and has also entered several speech contests. This summer Lisa is going to Brigham Young University in Utah to participate in plays and study acting more seriously. As for the future, Lisa plans to act in more plays and maybe someday will become an actress.

Student Donates Times For Others

While most people were at the beach getting a tan in August, senior Lori Carlson traveled with members of the Church of Christ to Ensenada, Mexico to make bricks for an orphanage for two weeks. At the orphanage there were about two hundred children, ranging from six months to eighteen years old.

Students work from six in the morning to twelve in the afternoon making all the bricks by hand. First the cement is mixed, then poured into molds, and then set out to dry. After the bricks are dried, the rough edges have to be filed away. Finally, the bricks are stacked and saved until needed for future buildings.

Hoping to be a Spanish major in college, Lori finds it very interesting to see how the people in Mexico live. The visit also gave her a chance to use her Spanish outside the classroom. Lori enjoys staying with the children and plans to return to the orphanage in the future.

Ice Hockey Player Travels To Canada

While most people go to an ice arena for enterrainment, Bill Angove goes there for competition. After hearing about ice hockey in Modesto, Bill decided to try it out. He liked it and stayed with it and now has been competing for eight years.

Bill belongs to two ice hockey teams. One team, a AA group, meets in Concord. The other is the AAA All Stars, consisting of players from all over Northern California. Bill went through three screenings before he made this team. The All Stars traveled to Canada for the playoffs, where they achieved a record of six wins, one loss and two ties. Ice hockey is a very rough sport. Bill has been injured many times, receiving a broken leg, a few concussions and several bruises. Despite all of his injuries, he is still faithful to his team. This summer Bill plans to attend hockey school in Canada for two weeks.

Golfer Holes Two Aces In One Day

Freshman Bobby LeDoux had a bit of luck one day last fall when he made two holes-in-one at Rolling Greens Golf Course. He tried to enter the Guinness Book of World Records for being the youngest ever to achieve his feat, but unfortunately, another fourteen-year-old had beat him to it.

Bobby, a golfer of four years and a member of Oakmont's golf team, has entered several Tournaments and has won a few of them. Practicing is easy for Bobby because his father is a teaching pro and owns a golf course in Roseville. Someday Bobby hopes to make a profession out of his golfing talent.

Metal Detecting Provides Fun, Profit

Tom Falconer, freshman, has an unusual hobby which most people know little about. He detects metal. He has been interested in this hobby since he read about it in a magazine nine months ago.

Metal detecting isn't an inexpensive hobby. The price of metal detectors starts at $300 and goes up, and repairs sometimes have to be made in order for the machine to work properly. According to Tom, the steps in detecting metal are fairly easy. First one finds an area most likely to have metal around it. Next the detector is turned on and the area is scanned with the detector close to the ground. Any metal within nine inches underground will be picked up by a sounder.

Since he started his hobby, Tom has found more than 2,400 coins, along with other objects such as rings, watches, and bracelets. The most valuable item he has found is a 1852 three-cent silver piece, a very rare U.S. coin.

Tom will soon be selling metal detectors to others. He also plans to go gold hunting with his detector this summer.

Exciting Sport Appeals To Seniors

Bull riding is not what people believe it to be, according to Mark Davis and Link Lauer, seniors, who are both experienced bull riders. Link has been riding for three and one-half years, while Mark has been doing it for two and one-half years.

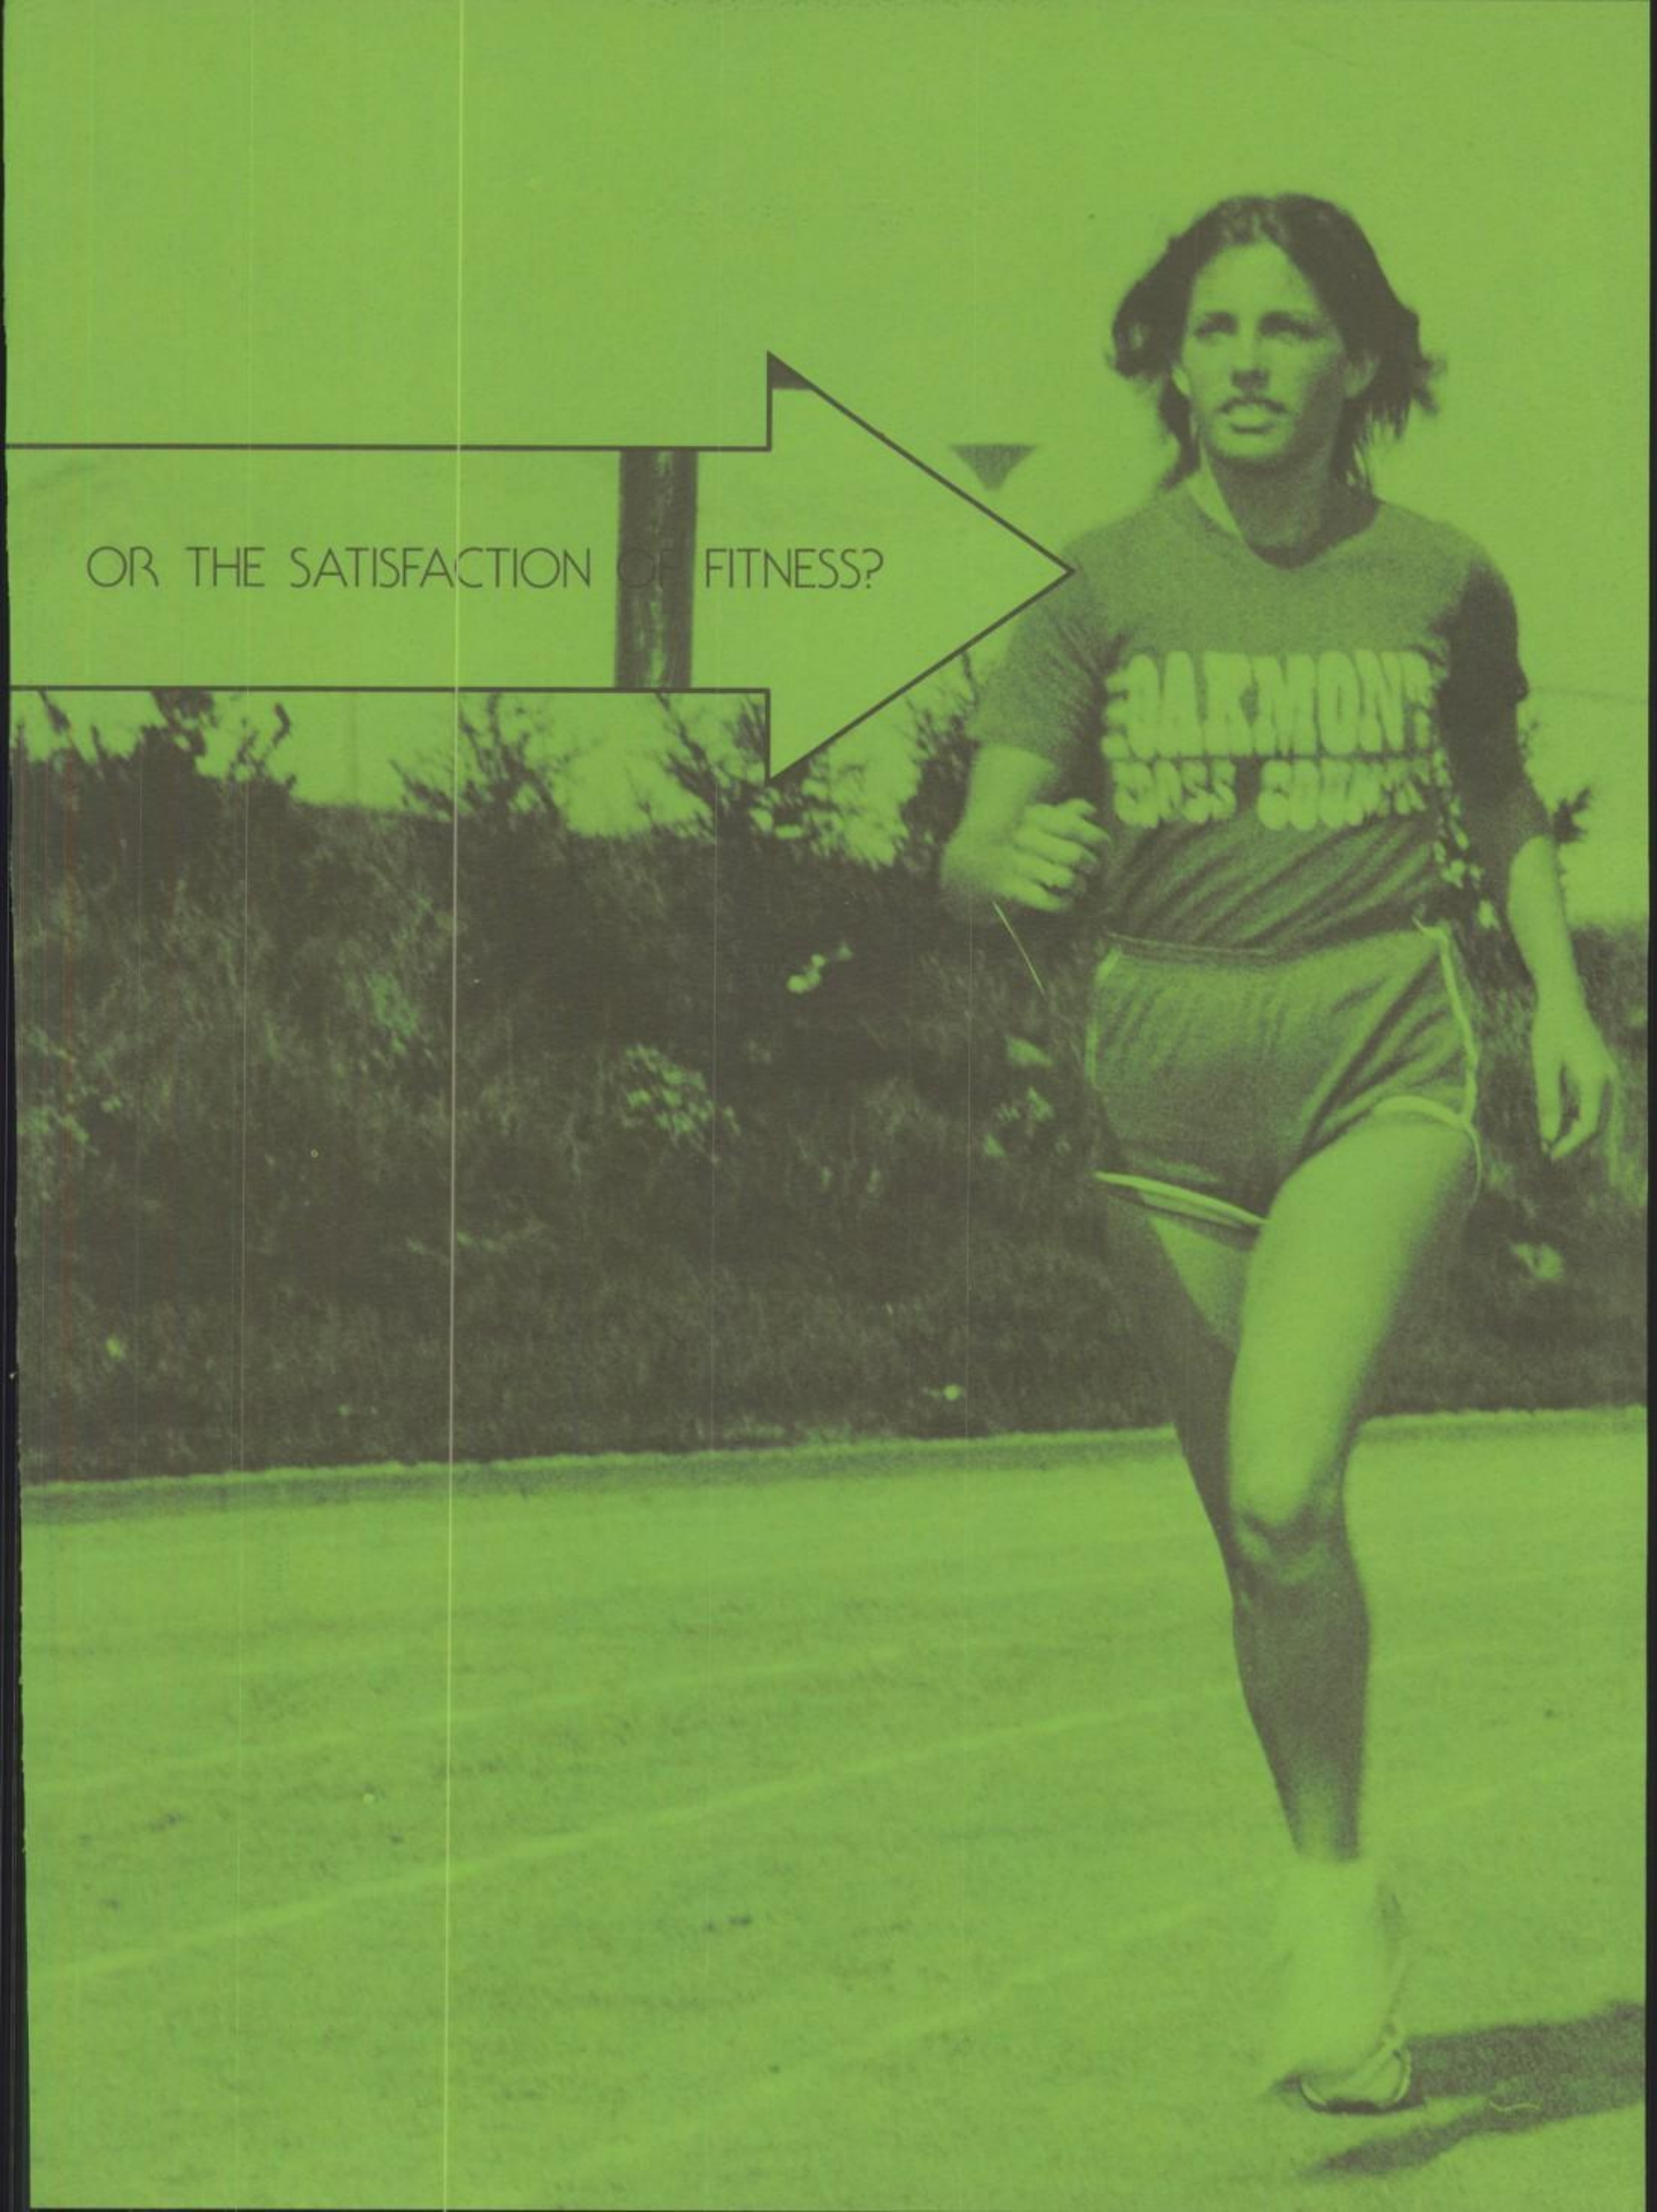
They both explain that some people misunderstand what the rodeo really is. Bull riding is only one event in the rodeo, but it is an event not to be taken lightly. It is a serious sport which requires a lot of attention and skill. The rider doesn't just jump on the bull and go, as some people think. To a rider, staying on the bull represents a challenge and adventure.

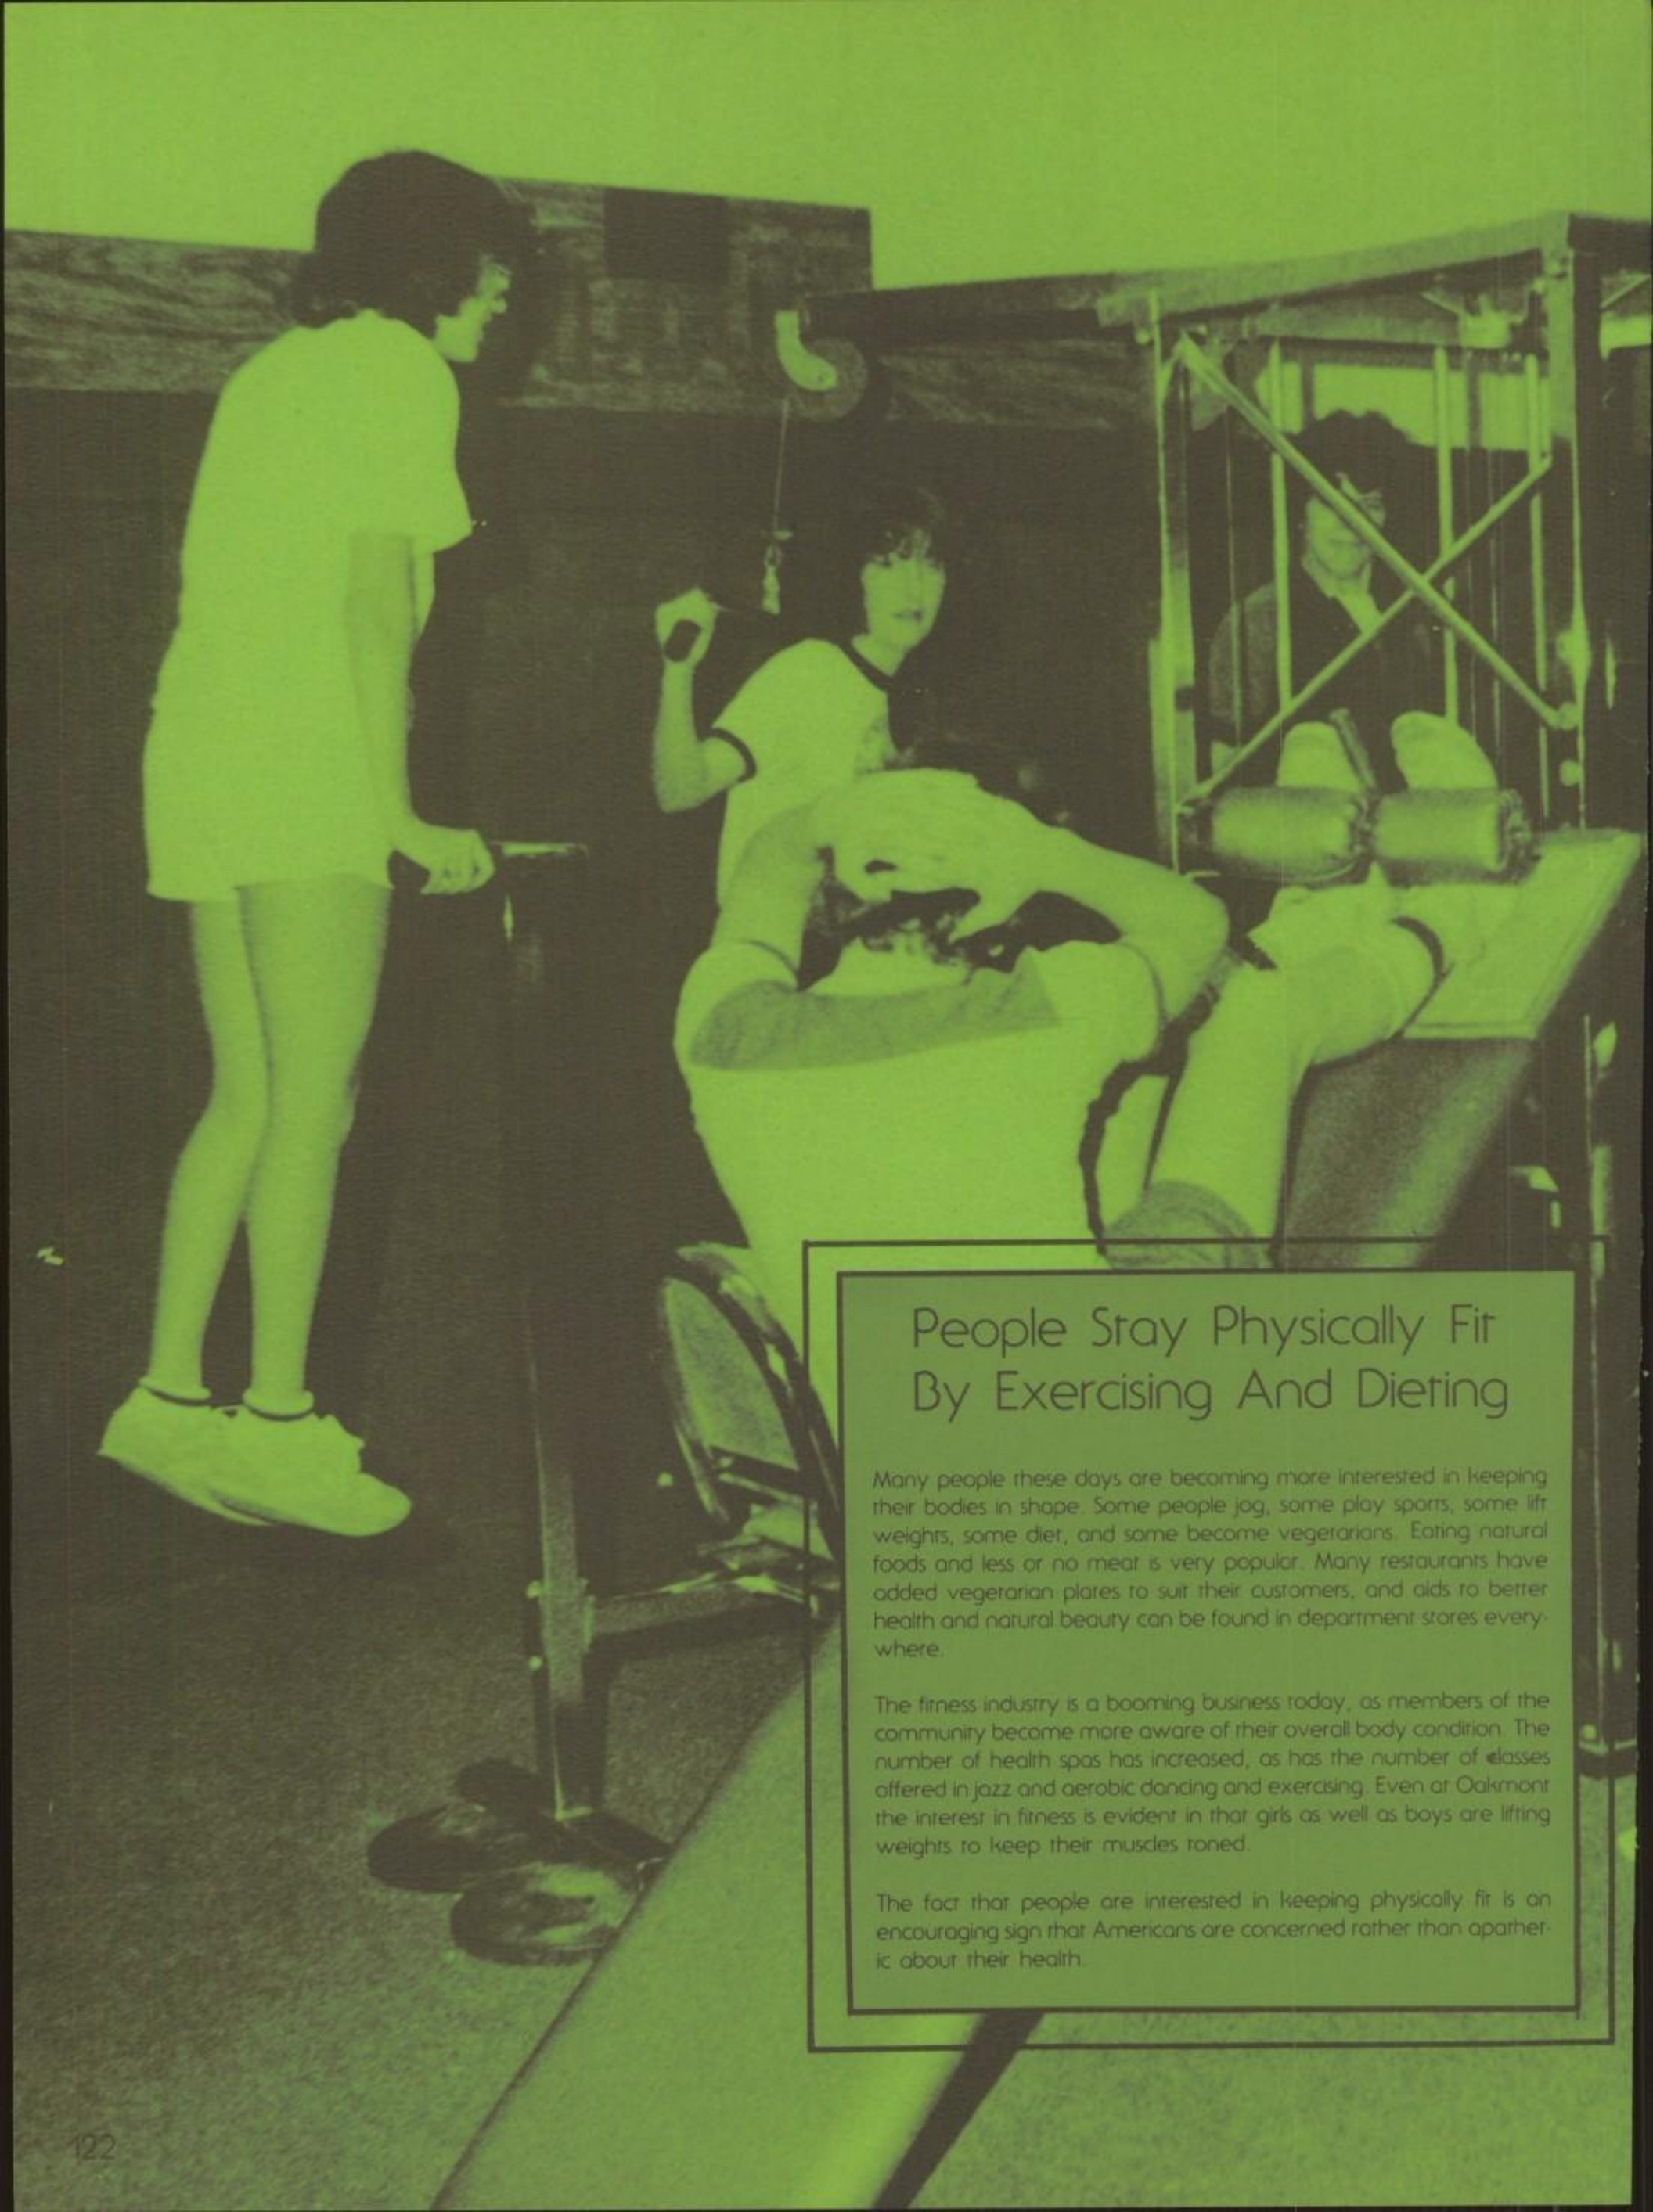
Link plans to get his CCA card (California Cowboy Association) which allows him to participate in special rodeos.

Mark plans to win at more rodeos, but neither of them are sure if they want to turn professional.

THE TEMPTATION OF JUNK FOOD?

OR THE SATISFACTION OF FITNESS?



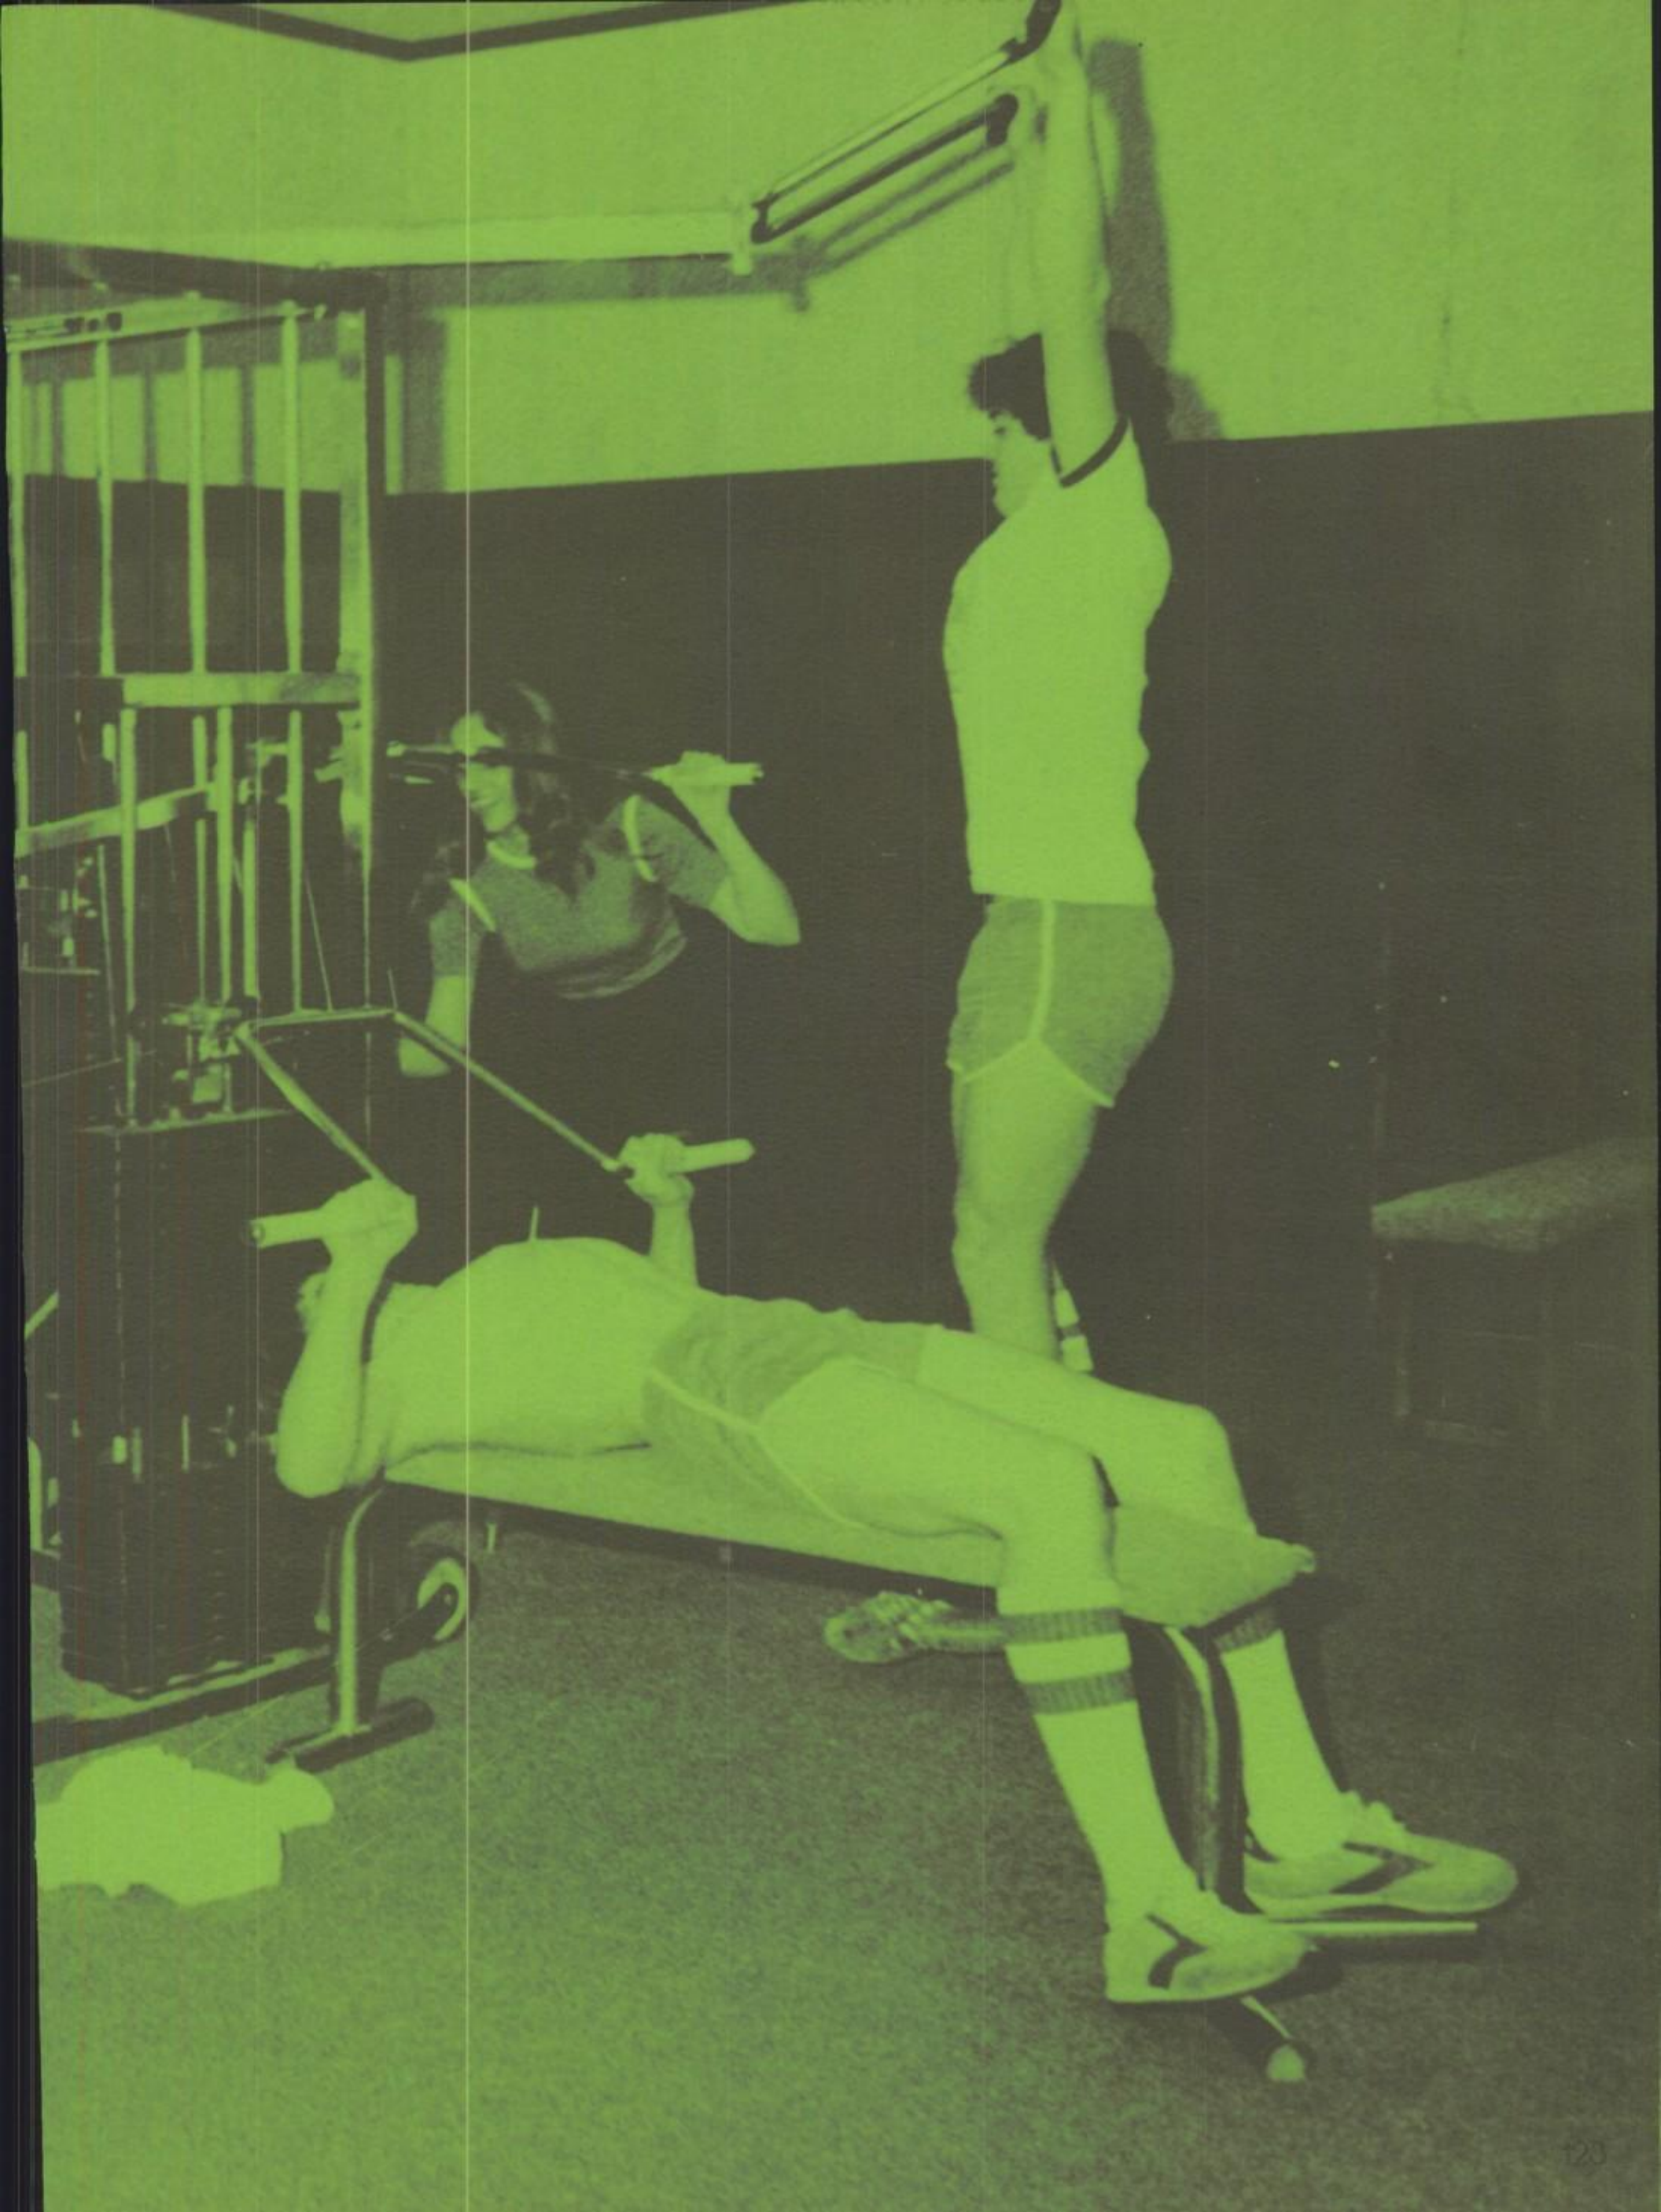


People Stay Physically Fit By Exercising And Dieting

Many people these days are becoming more interested in keeping their bodies in shape. Some people jog, some play sports, some lift weights, some diet, and some become vegetarians. Eating natural foods and less or no meat is very popular. Many restaurants have added vegetarian plates to suit their customers, and aids to better health and natural beauty can be found in department stores everywhere.

The fitness industry is a booming business today, as members of the community become more aware of their overall body condition. The number of health spas has increased, as has the number of classes offered in jazz and aerobic dancing and exercising. Even at Oakmont the interest in fitness is evident in that girls as well as boys are lifting weights to keep their muscles toned.

The fact that people are interested in keeping physically fit is an encouraging sign that Americans are concerned rather than apathetic about their health.



Fashion Changes Nationwide Become Evident At Oakmont

Fashion has taken some big changes this year. Punk, for instance, has changed from an anti-establishment statement to a quickly-rising fad. Punk fashions are demonstrated here by Kim Gayner and Don Price.

High fashion, a style that isn't necessarily new, has had some new alterations; it has declined to a more casual level as modeled here by Bruce Maeda and Theresa Ross. Also in vogue this year is another form of high fashion, but in a more casual direction. This is the "Preppie" look, demonstrated here by John Sinclair and Dace Udris. This is a fashion prevalent mostly in college-age students, yet it it still very popular on the Oakmont campus.

One more addition to fashion this year is western, a Hollywood-induced fad. The western look, inspired as much by a Hollywood movie as by anything else, isn't really new to Oakmont, but it is a change for a lot of the country. Western fashion is shown here by Ed Rakowski.

Fashions nation wide are echoed at Oakmont in many respects. Looking around the campus, most of the recent fashions can be seen.

Oakmont Scores Highly On Nationwide Academic Tests As A Result Of Top-Notch Personnel And Curriculum

These girls, Michelle Henry, Pam Jenson, and Julie Tornatore, are Oakmont's best academic seniors on the basis of their college preparatory grade point average.

Oakmont High has a well-respected reputation for academic excellence. By merely looking at the test scores of graduating and college-bound seniors, it becomes apparent that Oakmont maintains a very challenging and demanding curriculum.

Since Dr. Ron Feist assumed leadership of the administration in 1976 and began recording State Senior Test and SAT scores, Oakmont has demonstrated its success by standing far above the national average in all categories. Seniors who have gone into colleges in the University of California system usually drop one-half point from the grade point average they received at Oakmont, while, generally, students from other high schools drop one to one-and-a-half points.

Dr. Feist feels that of the many teaching innovations that occurred during the 1960's and 1970's, 80 to 85% were not beneficial to the student. Although Oakmont was established in 1965 during the midst of these changes, it was not affected as much as other schools. This was due primarily, and still is, to the fact that Oakmont is a demanding campus, stressing individual and group effort, discipline and good attendance.

English department head Lory Butcher feels that the reason Oakmont maintains such superiority over the nation is because the faculty recognizes the needs of the students and, based on this information, form a curriculum plan that demands a great deal of the students. By teaching basic skills, stressing achievement and progress of any kind from the student, and employing a variety of effective teaching aids and methods, students are given the responsibility of doing their best.

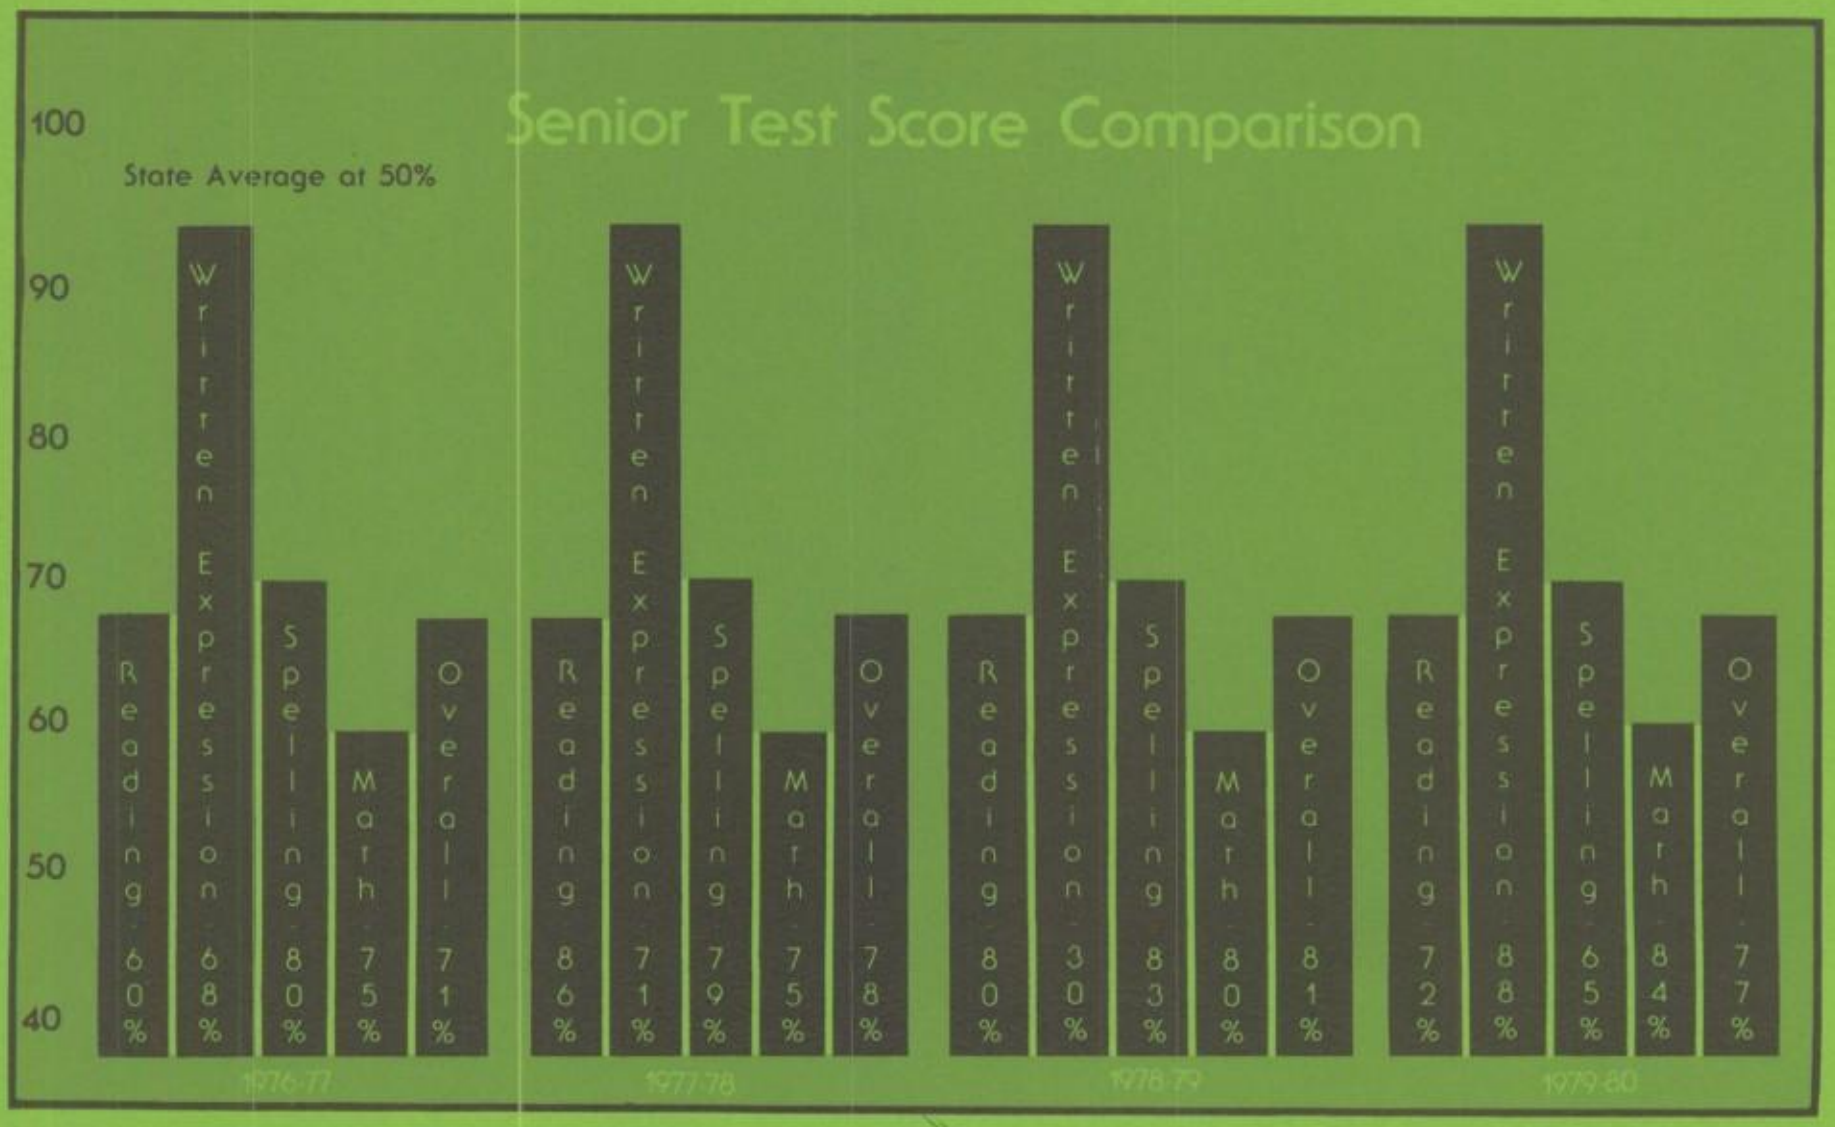
Leo Allison, department head in the area of math, feels that the success of Oakmont's students in math and related subjects is the result of division of students on the basis of their abilities, and demanding the students to perform. He strongly believes this homogeneous group encourages the advancement of each student. Again, only by teaching basic skills and fundamental processes can the student be expected to succeed.

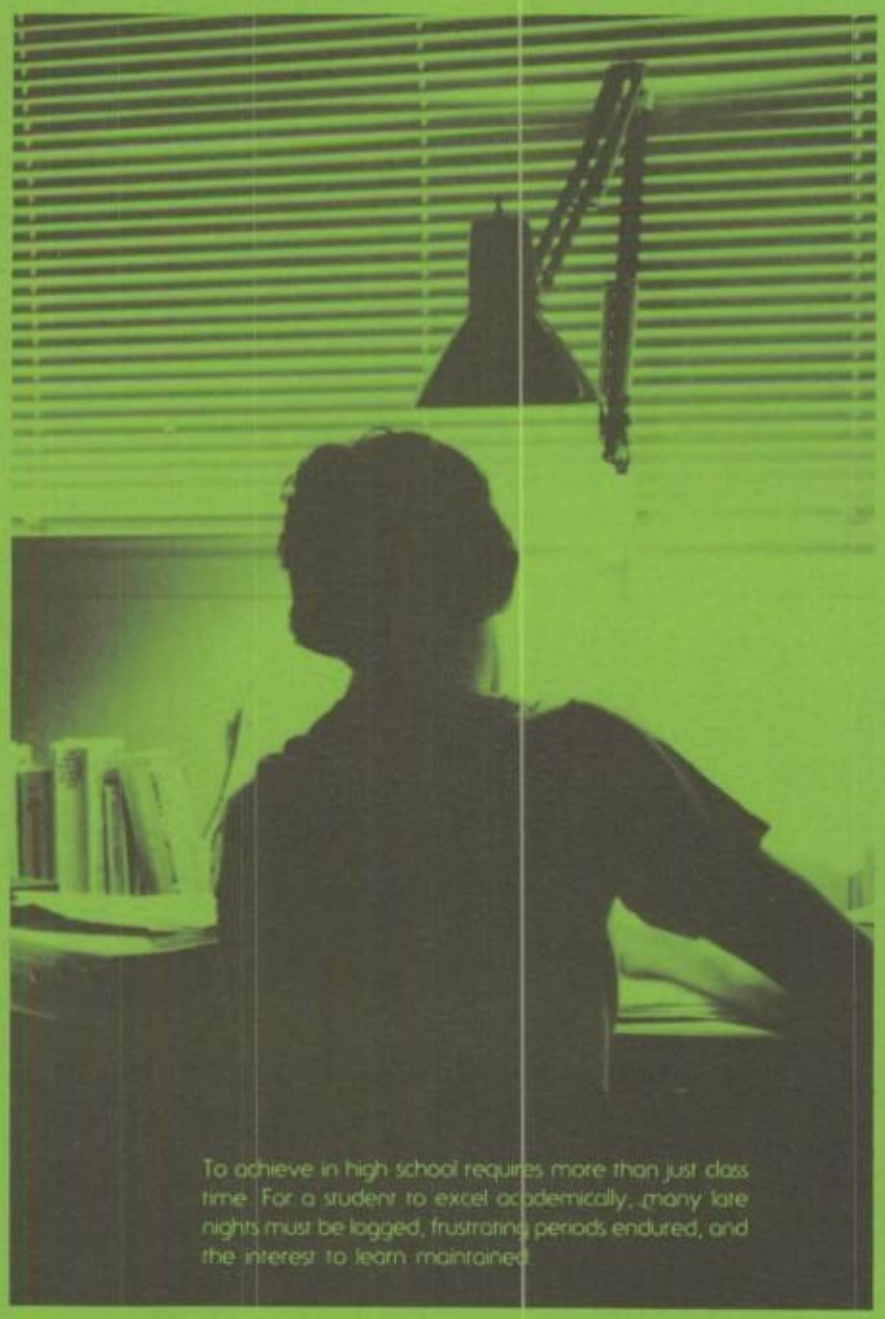
Both math and English teachers make available the opportunity for students to take tests not required by the district.

Therefore, one of the factors contributing to the fact that Oakmont is an excellent academic high school is emphasis on grammar and expression in English. Although in the 1970's there was a decline in the required number of math credits and in participation on the part of the student during the 1970's, the most probable reason Oakmont has experienced such a small amount of change is that the community and the faculty are less suited to drastic changes.

Dr. Feist believes that soon Oakmont will reach its highest potential in relation to other high schools. He is very pleased and proud of the academic achievement of Oakmont High.

The general atmosphere of the classroom has a great effect on how well the students understand the material given to them. Attractive rooms such as this Spanish class and teachers who care about their pupils both contribute to the academic success of Oakmont students.





To achieve in high school requires more than just class time. For a student to excel academically, many late nights must be logged, frustrating periods endured, and the interest to learn maintained.

German Club Holds Annual Food Feast; Spanish Club Hosts Third Tostada Booth

Despite the disbandment of the French Club, the German and Spanish Clubs both had very successful and busy years. The Spanish Club revised their constitution and furthermore set their main goal to meet new friends this year. The club held a progressive dinner in November and staged their third Tostada Booth at the Oakmont Parents' Club Carnival. They also went caroling at Christmas and held a Christmas canned food drive.

The German Club held their annual Oktoberfest featuring dishes made by the club members. Some typical dishes were veal cutlet, white sausage, sauerkraut, and Bavarian creme. Special guests were Mr. Jack McClure and Mr. Kevin Wherry, who both showed slides of Germany. Mr. Bob Delpippo, Mrs. Marsha Stires and Miss Ann Simpson were also present at the festivities.

Together the Spanish Club and German Club finished second in the Homecoming float competition. This marks the first year the two clubs combined their efforts in the event.

Foreign Exchange Students Enjoy New Styles Of Life

The popularity of the foreign exchange student program has grown over the last few years to an all-time high. Oakmont had four foreign exchange students who stayed until the end of the year: Bob VanDenBerg, Lucy Romero, and Carina Jafs from the American Field Service, and Hideko Kanno, sponsored by the Japanese Inter-Cultural Exchange program.

These students receive the benefit and understanding of how another culture functions, which they could never have experienced except through these programs.

Since the students were new to this country, it took time to adjust to the American lifestyle. School here is somewhat different; for example, their grading systems use numbers instead of letters for grades.

They also had to get used to having a single campus instead of several smaller campuses with smaller student populations.

American students ask them about the music in their countries almost every time they speak in front of groups. According to the foreign visitors, there is no difference in the music they hear; they have the same groups singing the same songs. Another similarity is the clothing; they were basically the same styles that we do. One major difference between our cultures in the food. The U.S. has a better selection than other countries according to the foreign students.

Even though America was an interesting place to visit, the exchange students still can't wait to get back to their own countries to see their families and friends.

Oakmont AFS Club Gives Foreign Exchange Students Chance To Meet America

The American Field Service Organization can be considered a service club, raising money to host and assist foreign exchange students that spend one year in Roseville. Through the club, students can learn about different cultures, customs, habits, laws, and opinions.

Oakmont was visited by three AFS foreign exchange students this year. For Lucila Romero from Paraguay, Carina Jafs from Finland and Bob Van Den Berg from the Netherlands, a senior year at Oakmont is a great experience, because of the difference in the educational system and school life between the United States and their home countries. All three agreed that California is a nice place to live and they enjoyed their stay very much. At club meetings, the students told about their home countries and their experiences in the United States. In February, Lisa Price, who graduated in 1980 from Oakmont, talked about her stay in New Zealand.

Odinboken Staff Strives To Take A Closer Look In '81

A closer look at the 1981 Odinboken staff will show that dedication and creativity were not the only characteristics of the staff. As deadlines approached, staff members spent many hours after school and on the weekends in room 204 to complete layouts, select pictures or write copy in an effort to make this yearbook a very special one.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Gerry Colon, editors Kyle Biehle and Darla Black worked hard on the special pages. Michelle Lemos, John Sinclair, John Akens and Cassie Florance proved to be valuable salespersons, setting a school record of $3,500 in ad sales. Different layout styles were used in each division of this book. A team of photographers, which consisted of John Akens, Darla Black, Ken Foster, Mark Herring, Pat Jennings, Collin Lowry, and April Wells, were appointed to improve upon Odinboken photography from the past. Activities such as the yearbook rally, yearbook sales day and money-raising activities were organized by the staff to make up the extra dollars needed to add color and special effects to the book.

Norse Notes Editors Work Hard During 1980-81 Year To Print Top Newspapers

Even though Norse Notes had a smaller staff than most schools, the class still published a good newspaper and made numerous improvements over past years' editions. The editors added several new articles such as Annie's Sports Review, devoted to girls' sports information; Club Scene, highlighting OHS organizations; an Answer of the Month selected from the Roving Reporter responses; Vike of the Month, featuring an outstanding athlete; plus additional photographs to enliven the layouts.

Heading the staff this year was editor-in-chief Laurie Shultz. She was aided by Don Price, copy editor and Todd Steele, business manager. They were supported by a staff that kept very busy all year long, especially during publication deadlines.

Staff members also sponsored several fund-raising events such as after-game dances, flower sales and the Sadie Hawkins dance. In the spring they entered competition with other Sacramento area schools to determine how they compare with other high school newspapers. Overall, the Norse Notes staff worked many hours to perfect their stories and publish a high-quality newspaper.

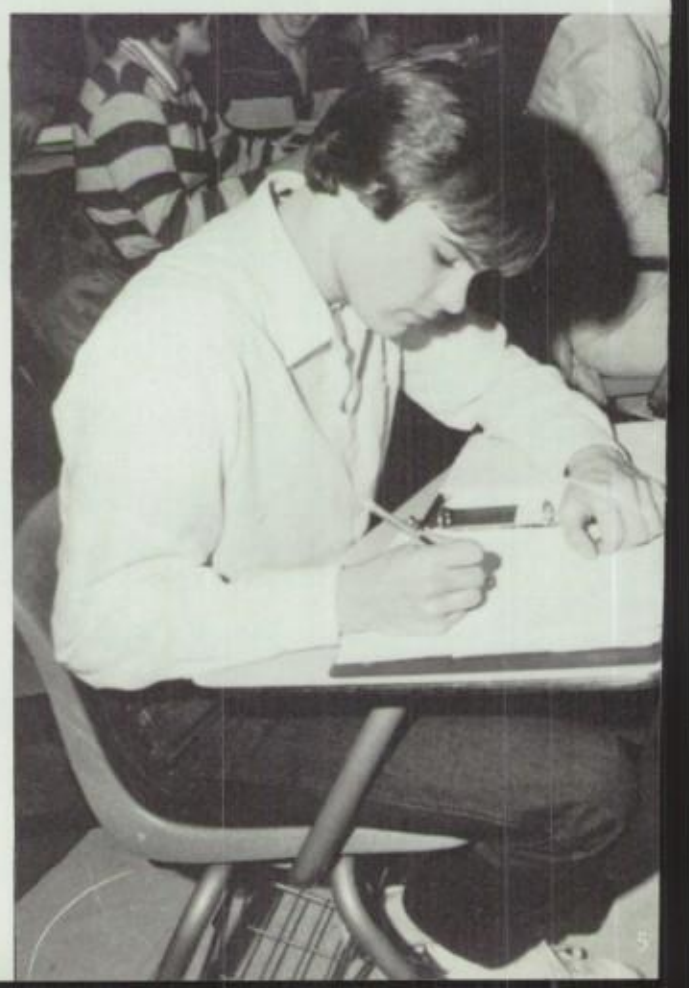
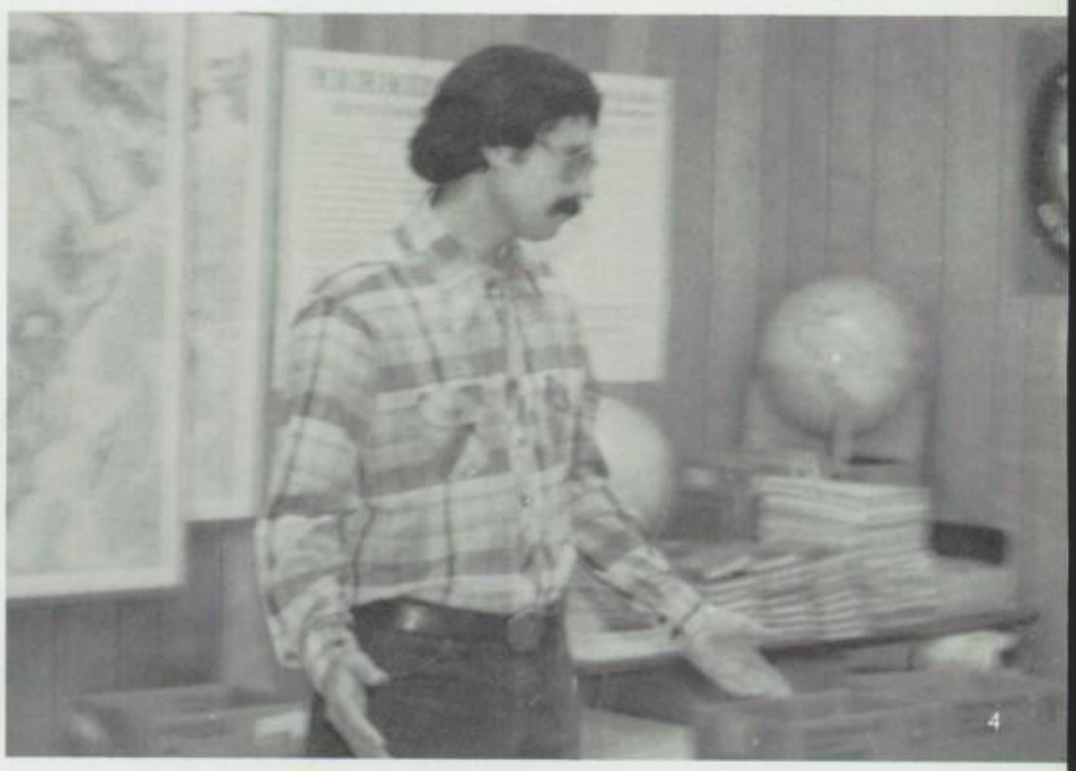
Physics Club Shows Effort Using Sports Concessions; Ski Club Wins First Prize In Homecoming Competition

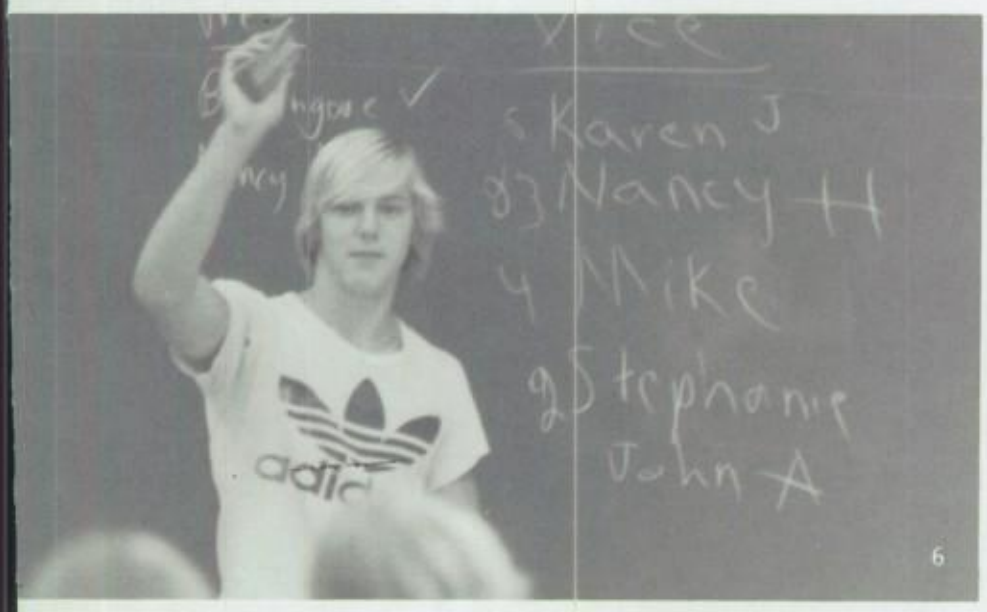
1. SEATED AT THE "One-on-One Counsel," Senior Allen Toms listens to Mr. Lonnie Grimes' response regarding a physics experiment. The "One-on-One Counsel" affords Mr. Grimes an opportunity to deal with his students on a personal level as well as on a group basis. 2. THE PHYSICS CLUB officers, Secretary-Treasurer Clay Booher, Vice-King Michelle Henry and King Tim Keenan, tabulate the total number of goods sold at a typically successful football concession. 3. JUNIOR LESLIE MARTIN is one of the few devoted upper classmen supporters of the Ski Club. The majority of the members are sophomores and freshmen who rely on the school for most of their skiing. 4. SKI CLUB ADVISOR Mike Clark disappointedly explains the ski conditions that will determine the success of a ski trip to Squaw Valley. 5. IN SENIOR BOB Stratham's physics class, even the usually tiresome task of writing up a lab experiment is made enjoyable by the fast-paced activity that characterizes the class taught by Mr. Lonnie Grimes. 6. SOPHOMORE BILL ANGOVE, just elected president of the Ski Club, assumes his first responsibility of installing the rest of the officers by counting the votes of the members.



This year proved to be another educational and entertaining experience for the club and its leaders, King Tim Keenan, Vice-King Michelle Henry and Secretary-Treasurer Clay Booher. Approximately ninety-nine percent of the club members are physics students who participate in the effort to finance the club's annual trips. In the past, they have gone to San Francisco's Exploratorium, Planetarium and Steinhart Aquarium and the PG&E's Drum Powerhouse in Alta, California. Advisor Lonnie Grimes' description of the club is "Slothful. They're hard to motivate." Despite his comments, Mr. Grimes recognizes the fact that the club's handling of the football and basketball concessions and "world-renowned" egg booth at the Parents Club Carnival are highly successful. Mr. Grimes feels the highlight of the year is the physics class itself. Although he had students that were failing, they did not want to leave. Asked why the officers had such unusual titles, Mr. Grimes said, "It's an unusual class. Nothing routine happens here. We try to add some color to life."

Although the weather seemed to be an obstacle to the Ski Club at the outset of the season by causing two trips to be cancelled, the snow finally fell in January and the members seized the opportunity with a trip to Sugar Bowl. The club size has remained relatively the same over the years, but the rising cost of lift tickets and fuel has discouraged approximately half the members from going on trips. Advisor Mike Clark also finds that most of the juniors and seniors have alternate methods to go skiing. Regardless of the price set for each trip, the club does not break even and hence loses money. To compensate for this, President Bill Angove, Vice-President Nancy Holzhausen and Secretary-Treasurer Cassie Florance encouraged the participation of the members in the usually successful ski tune-up. In addition to the money, from the dues and the tune-up, the club won first place at the Homecoming float competition for clubs and the $75 prize. Mr. Clark feels advising the club is a satisfying job because it puts the students in a different light. "Everyone learns about each other doing something we all enjoy."





CSF's Year Is Highlighted By Helping Students Enter Colleges With Scholarships

C.S.F., the California Scholastic Federation, holds many opportunities for college-bound high school students. The CSF is the only nationally recognized honor society and thus its members are eligible for special benefits, such as financial aids. The CSF also furnishes opportunities for students to be exempt from college entrance programs and allows them to enter an honors program in most colleges. The honors program is much harder yet more prestigious than the regular curriculum. Also, in limited admittance colleges, the CSF students, with grades equal to non-CSF members, will be admitted.

The CSF program is advised by Mrs. Ann Freelove with officers as follows: Karl Terwilliger as President, David Leung as Vice-President, Wes Harvey as secretary. The club requirement is that students must have three A's and two B's. Every semester the students can apply to be in the club if they have these grades. When a person has been in CSF for their last five semesters of high school, then they are eligible for life membership. This honor allows students to receive special scholarships and obtain a golden seal on their diploma. These people are known as seal bearers.

This year's CSF group planned a trip to U.C. Davis in the spring. The club makes money for their field trips with activities throughout the year. They are going to Davis to acquaint the students with the college campus system and also to demonstrate what college life is like.

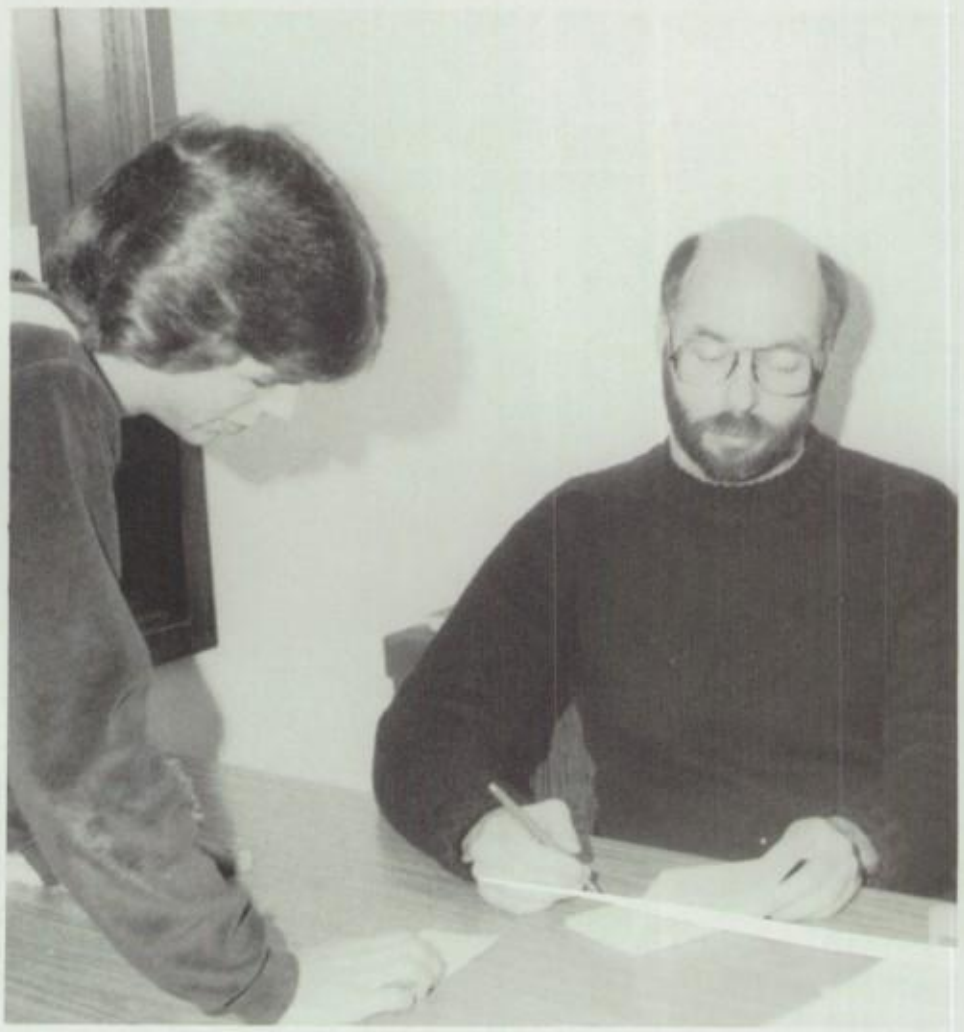
Student Council Increases Students' Participation With New Reach Out Committee



The growing awareness and participation from the student body last fall was due to the creation of the Reach Out Committee. Reach Out was developed by the Student Council to enable more students to become involved in everything. Special assemblies were sponsored by Student Council to allow students to become aware of this committee. Student Council is in charge of many things. They distribute sponsorship of dances and concessions. The council also designs the school stationery and ring along with being in charge of publicity.

The fall council sponsored homecoming and freshman orientation. Game referrees, officials, and police were paid with the funds raised by Student Council.

During the fall, student council raised money through game ticket sales. This money was used to help purchase new band uniforms and the weight room.

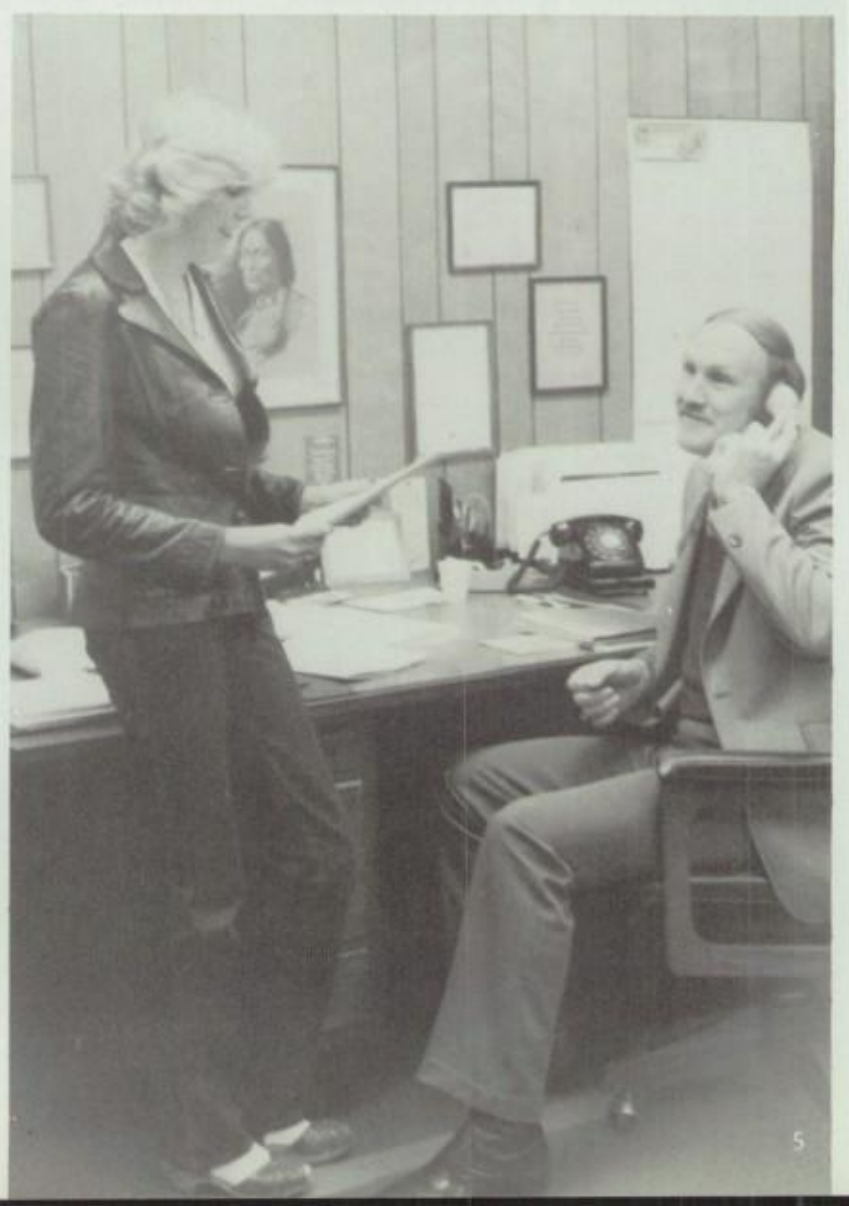
Through one of the most intense elections in Oakmont's history, spring semester's Student Council was chosen. From the beginning, spirit was high and helped create one of the best schedule of student activities ever. Led by the executive officers, President John Sinclair, Vice-Presidents Darla Black and Danell Wagner, Secretary Nancy Holzhausen and Treasurer Lori Carlson, the Council put on a great Queen Freyja celebration, a new program of lunch and activity period presentations, and a well-attended Spring Madness Day among many other activities. The Reach Out theme and committee was re-organized and again made an important impact upon the student body. Improved leadership techniques, a new item taught within the Council itself, made for better working conditions. Overall, the semester was one of the best in Oakmont's history.

Students Counsel Principal, Join PAC To State Views



Being a principal is a very complicated job, since it requires a lot of decision making and co-ordinating activities between students, faculty and parents. Dr. Ron Feist organized the Principal's Advisory Committee to get the students' input on important issues, which he then puts into consideration when decision making.

Some topics discussed at the meetings were graduation concepts, cable vision, and the bus and telephone problems. One of the main projects undertaken this year was the cafeteria food. The PAC planned to survey the school to find out if any changes could be made.

Officers of the PAC are nominated and then elected by the students. The 80-81 officers are: Amy Feist, chairperson, Michelle Henry, vice-chairperson, Amy Johnson, secretary, and Jeff Rogers, suggestion box chairman.

The students benefit from the PAC by gaining more knowledge about their school system and how it works. It also helps improve the student-principal relationship.

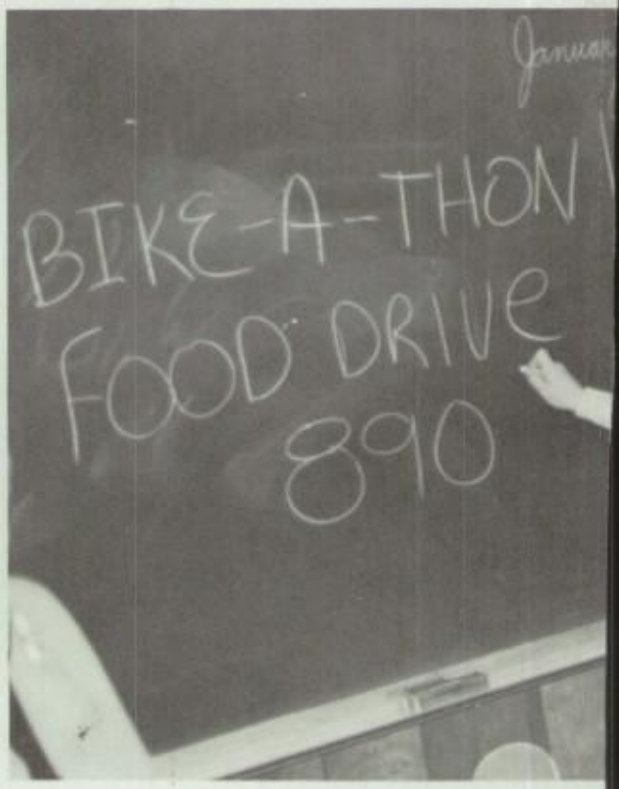
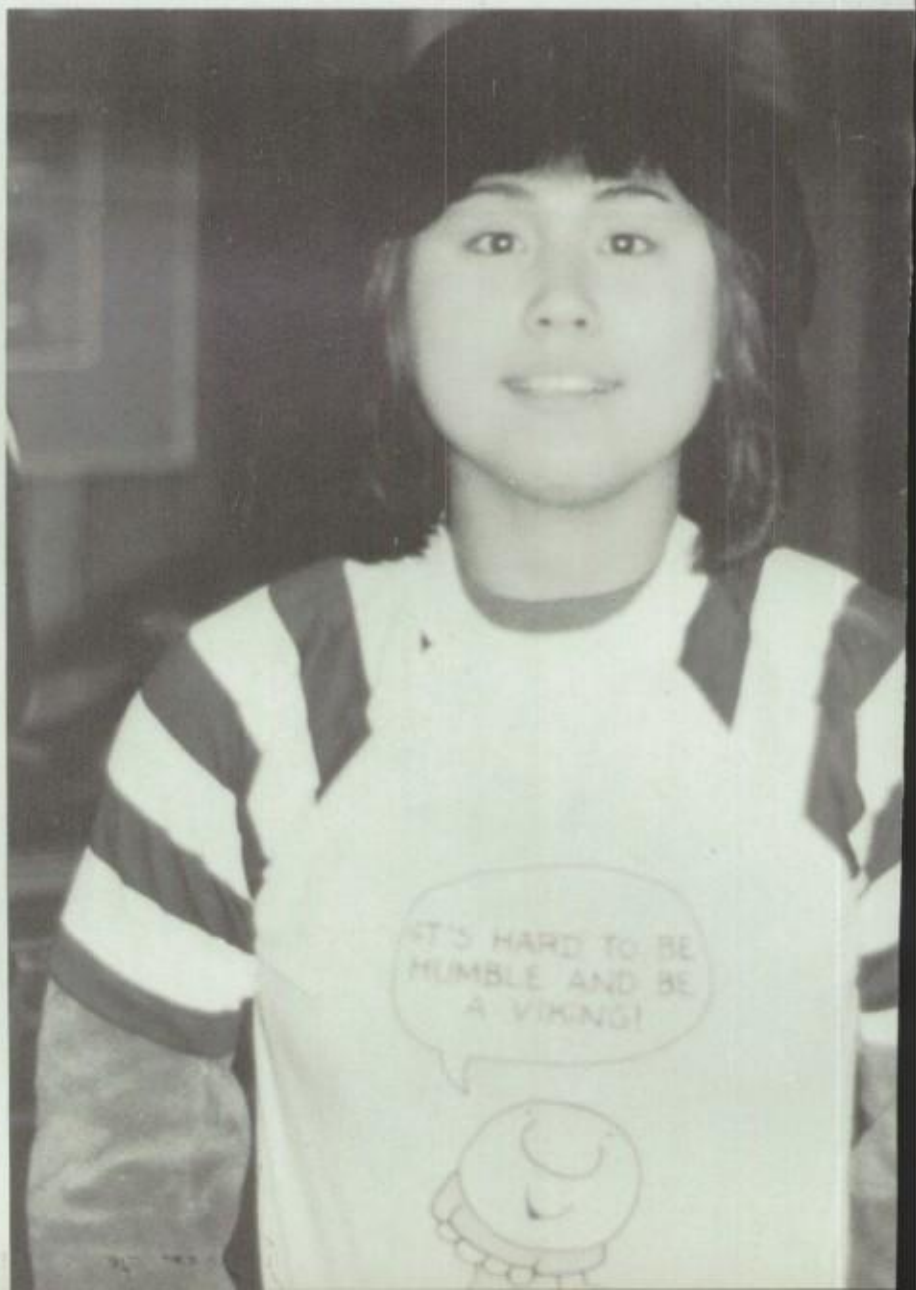
Bike-a-thon Highlights Year For 1980-81 Service Club





Spirit and enthusiasm is what S Club is all about. The S Club had an exciting and beneficial year helping the school and community. They raised money by having the annual Bike-a-thon and selling helium balloons at the Oakmont Parents' Club Carnival. All of the proceeds go toward improvement of the school such as the painting of the school sign in front of Oakmont, and paying off the long awaited stage curtains.

The Service Club serves the community as well, by having an annual canned food drive for the needy people of Roseville. President Chris Grabowski said that the student body did a stupendous job exceeding their goal of 700 cans. When the blood bank came to Oakmont the S Club served donuts and drinks to all the donors. They also went Christmas caroling in the children's ward of Roseville Hospital.

The Service Club would not even be a club without the three advisors, Mrs. Mary Bacigalupi, Mrs. Sheri Shaffer and Mr. Kevin Wherry. The S Club had a great year and they have high hopes for the future.

Community Gets Involved With Site Council/Parents Group

Many people besides the students are concerned about Oakmont, such as the Site Council and Parents Club, which involve over 400 people. Every spring the carnival is hosted by the Parents Club which also sponsors many sports events. Through all their hard work, they raise approximately $1,400 a year which in turn goes for improvements in the school such as new stage curtains, a piano, and a computer. The club requires only one dollar dues a year, and a little bit of time and energy. Dr. Ron Feist described the Parents Club as "Outstanding, supportive, and willing."

On the other hand, Site Council does not raise money, but they are equally important as a legislative body. The Site Council workd hard to update all facets of Oakmont life such as unscheduled classes, program changes, arena scheduling, and attendance policies. Members of the Site Council, students, parents, teachers, administrators and classified staff, all have equal votes in all discussions.

All meetings are open to the public in hopes of involving more parents in the decision making at Oakmont.

81 Pep Squad Represents Oakmont High Viking Spirit

What would a football or basketball game be without the pep squad to promote spirit and yell the teams on to victory? Although the pep squad's main function is to cheer, they participate in many other activities too. They are required to take the student council class and maintain a grade point average above 2.5. But probably the most important function is to represent Oakmont at other schools and in the community.

The group as a whole is called the pep squad, but in actuality the girls have different functions. For instance, there are three sets of cheerleaders—Freshman, J.V. and Varsity—who cheer for their own games; they learn several cheers and chants and some basic tumbling routines. Then there are songleaders, who perform to music to entertain the crowd, although they do support the cheerleaders by yelling. And of course what would a high school be without mascots to carry the school name and emblem proudly.

Pepsters Play Key Role In Planning Campus Activities

In the past there have been two sets of cheerleade but a new policy was formed in hopes of improving participation and the quality of the pep squad. One girl out of each section is selected as head; they in general shoulder the responsibility for the group, taking attendance, getting music, making sure that everyone can attend practices. When the girls are on the field they're all equal and have to work smoothly together.

During the winter the pep squad keeps busy learning cheers but during the spring their main focus moves to planning Spring Madness Day, dances, tryouts for next year's squad, and in general helping out the student council class.

Guys or gals can be pep squad members. During the spring students go through two screenings and then try out before the school. The final decision is made by a democratic vote of the student body. Although some think that pep squad tryouts have turned into a popularity contest, the student body must know what they're doing because Mr. Scott O'Connor and Miss Sharry Colnar, advisors, said, "The 1980/1981 pep squad was the best squad we've ever worked with."

Block O Club Revisved By Mr. Godwin This Year To Unite Athletes At Oakmont

This year Mr. Pat Godwin, the newly-appointed athletic director, revived the Block O club for the purpose of having the Oakmont athletes to function as a whole. It has been a whole decade since the Block O was last seen under the guidance of Mr. Glenn Poole. Mr. Godwin is very optimistic about the future of Block O and is already planning for future activities such as banquets, fund raisers, and trips to the coast and the mountains. The club is similar to the old lettermen's club with requirements being that a person must have four points on the scale of a varsity letter equals four points, a JV letter equals two points and a freshman letter equals one point. If a member of the Block O club acquires five varsity letters, s/he is nominated for a lifetime pass. A board of coaches, parents, and other Block O members review her/his participation in these sports and then s/he may obtain a lifetime membership which entitles her/him to get into every athletic event free for the rest of her/his life. S/He is also honored at a banquet with the other members and a newspaper article.

SENIOR SHANNON CARRANZA, who won many awards throughout the year, leads the color guard with her baton twirling routine during a half-time show.

Under the leadership of band director, Mr. Ritchey Hodge, the band grew both in size and ability this year. Concerts they performed included the traditional Christmas and spring concerts, the music in our schools week (the annual visits to the elementary schools), and graduation. The bands and color guard entered many parades and competitions where they did exceptionally well, bringing home numerous trophies and awards. The annual spring tour was cancelled this year, however, because all funds went toward purchasing new uniforms.

Due to the growing number of band members, new uniforms were purchased to replace the sixteen -year-old ones. Money for the new uniforms was raised through various fund-rasing activities such as a candle sale, a turkey raffle for Thanksgiving, a valentine's flower sale and the annual band marathon.

The students' enthusiasm and dedication was proved at early-morning marching practices on the cold, muddy field as well as at after-school hours to rehearse their numbers. After-school practices were mandatory for members of the color guard. Unity, pride, and enthusiasm will enable the band to expand current enrollment in the upcoming years.

Choral Groups Start 1981 With Bright Future Ahead

Oakmont's Choral Department took a new turn this year with a change of instructors. Coming from North Dakota, Mr. John Ostenson arrived at Oakmont at the beginning of second quarter in November, bringing with him fresh ideas and a new outlook.

The vocal music department's first appearance was the Christmas concert, with performances by Twilights, Chorus, Concert Choir and Men's Ensemble. There was a noticeable improvement in the quality of each group and in a new selection of music, leaning more toward the traditional.

Fund raising got off to a slow start, but with the help of a newly-formed booster club, supported by friends and parents of choral members, it was a good year for projects.

Mr. Ostenson has high ambitions for the future, and when asked to comment on what direction Oakmont's choral groups are going in the future, his reply was "Up!"

1981 Entertainment Rallies Exceed Pep Squad Rallies

Hoping to get more students involved in school activities this year, Student Council's theme, for the year was "Reach Out." To promote their theme, council sponsored an impressive multi-media slide show to start off the year on a high note. Another entertainment rally which got a great response from the student body was presented by the band FreeFare, who played rock music and put on several skits for the student body.

One of the most unusual pep rallies of this year was the "New Games Rally" which had no seating restrictions. During the rally several games were introduced for various students to compete in. The most unusual event was the lap sit race where several clubs competed against each other for a pizza as the prize. One of the highlights of this rally was the appearance made by the Crest Team, which was chosen by the JV football team as their protection from the opposing team.

With the professional entertainment rallies and the exciting pep rallies, the fall season was an exciting one for Oakmont students.

Battle Of The Sexes Rally Challenges Students' Ability In Showing Their Spirit

Student council tried a new idea this year by putting the boys against the girls in a rally setting. The Battle of the Sexes Rally proved to be very successful in that it was a change from the ordinary rallies of the past. It was highlighted by the boy cheerleaders who showed their school spirit by doing cheers for the boys' side, although the girl cheerleaders also did an excellent job in promoting spirit.

The main event of the rally was the basketball game putting the varsity girls against the J.V. boys. The boys' handicap was having to use boxing gloves, while the girls got to play free-handed. The basket ball game was very exciting, with the final score being 6 to 3 in the boys' favor.

The boy cheerleaders provided much of the entertainment at the rally. They displayed an equal amount of spirit and enthusiasm and were just as skillful in their routines as the girl cheerleaders. Up until the closing moments, the boys had won every contest at the rally. Then came the competition yell, which the boys also won. After this victory, the boys were handed the spirit jug and named the winners of the Battle of the Sexes Rally.

Rallies Help Inspire Teams And Express School Spirit

Rallies are traditional in every school gym. They help us express our school spirit. Among the successful rallies we've had this year are the Homecoming, New Games, Battle of the Sexes, and the Queen Freyja. Special rallies have been the most spirited. These are among the few that have really shown our true colors this year.

At both the Homecoming and the Queen Freyja, the student body cheered our varsity football and basketball teams on to victory. At the New Games rally, a few students from each class were selected to participate in contests while the remainder of the student body cheered on their classmates. One of the best rallies this year was Battle of the Sexes rally, in which the males were against the females to see which was the better sex. Just about everyone expressed his enthusiasm which explained the loud uproar from the student body.

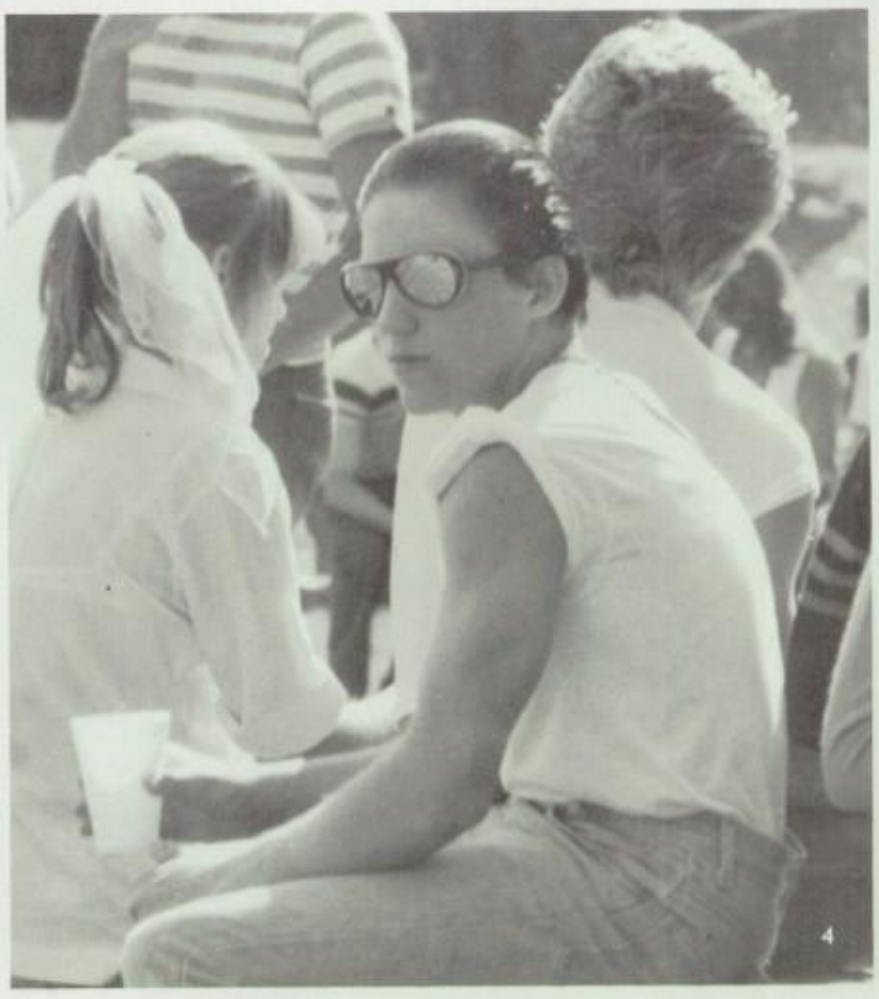
Student Council Adds New Day To 1980 Spirit Week

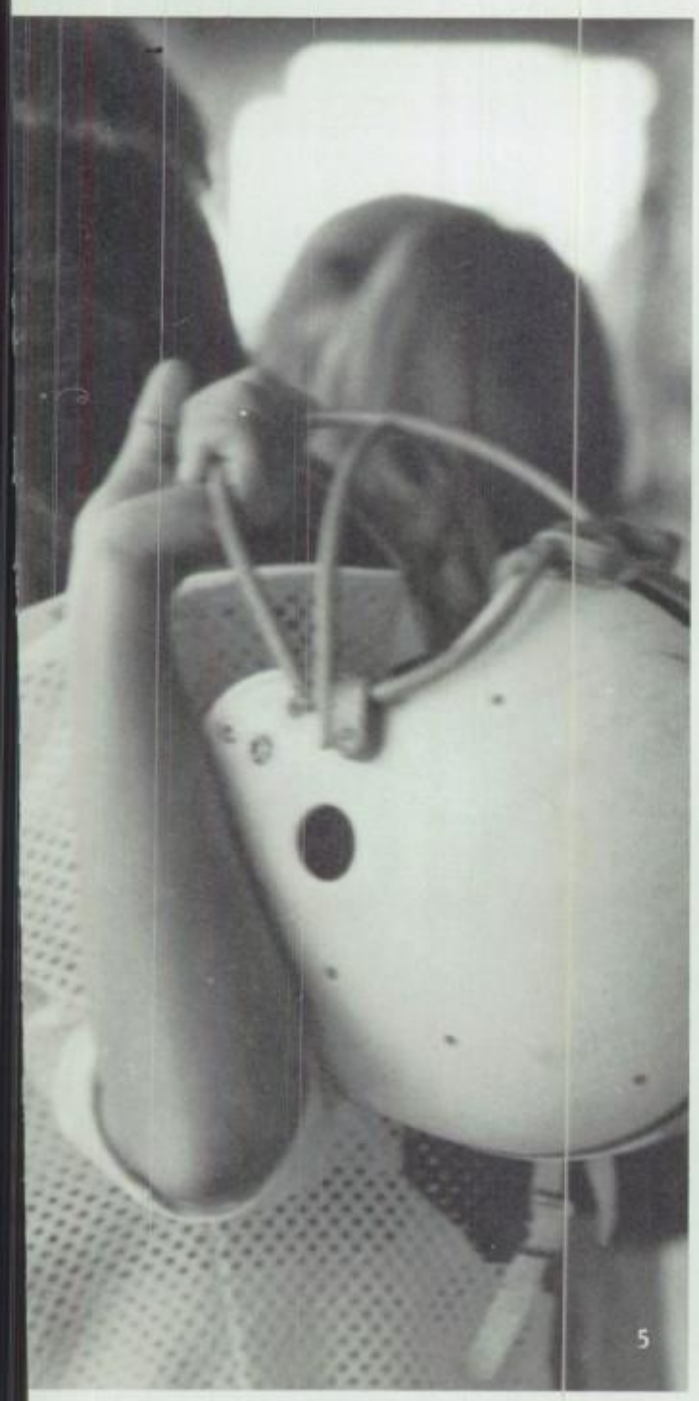
School spirit and class competition are two very prominent parts of Oakmont life, especially during Spirit Week 1980. Student Council made this year's event a week to remember by adding some new days. The most unusual was "Punk Rock Day" on which people dressed up like members of a punk rock band, although many people were not too sure exactly what a punk rocker wears. The costumes ranged from mud-covered work clothes to bright colors layered over one another.

Another day was devoted to class competition. The seniors had the most unique idea with their theme of wearing their clothes inside out. The juniors with their ties, the sophomores dressed as 50's characters and the freshmen dressed as athletes of all description gave it a good try.

The greatest amount of spirit was shown on "Hat and Sunglasses" day as most everyone in the school dug out a hat and a pair of sunglasses to wear to school.

The final day, the traditional Blue and White Day, wrapped up a week filled with excitement and spirit, all leading up to the big homecoming celebration on Friday.





1. ALTHOUGH THERE WAS some opposition to Punk Rock Day, a large segment of the student body caught the spirit and showed up at school looking like punk rockers. 2. JUNIORS TAMI STONE and Stacy Nutter outdid everyone with their enormous blue headgear on "Hats and Sunglasses Day." 3. OHS Vikings Show Spirit In '80 Homecoming Rally

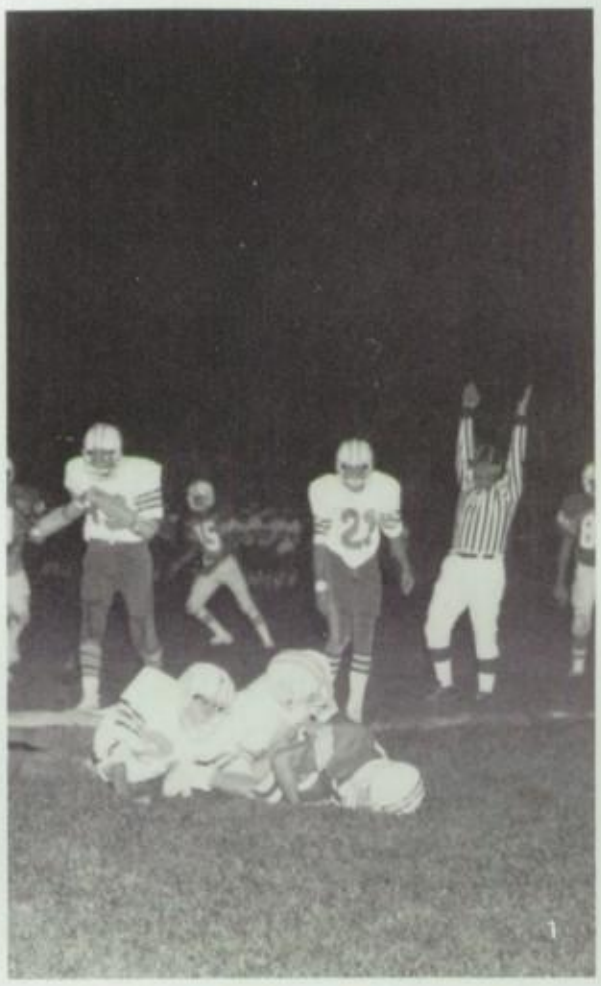
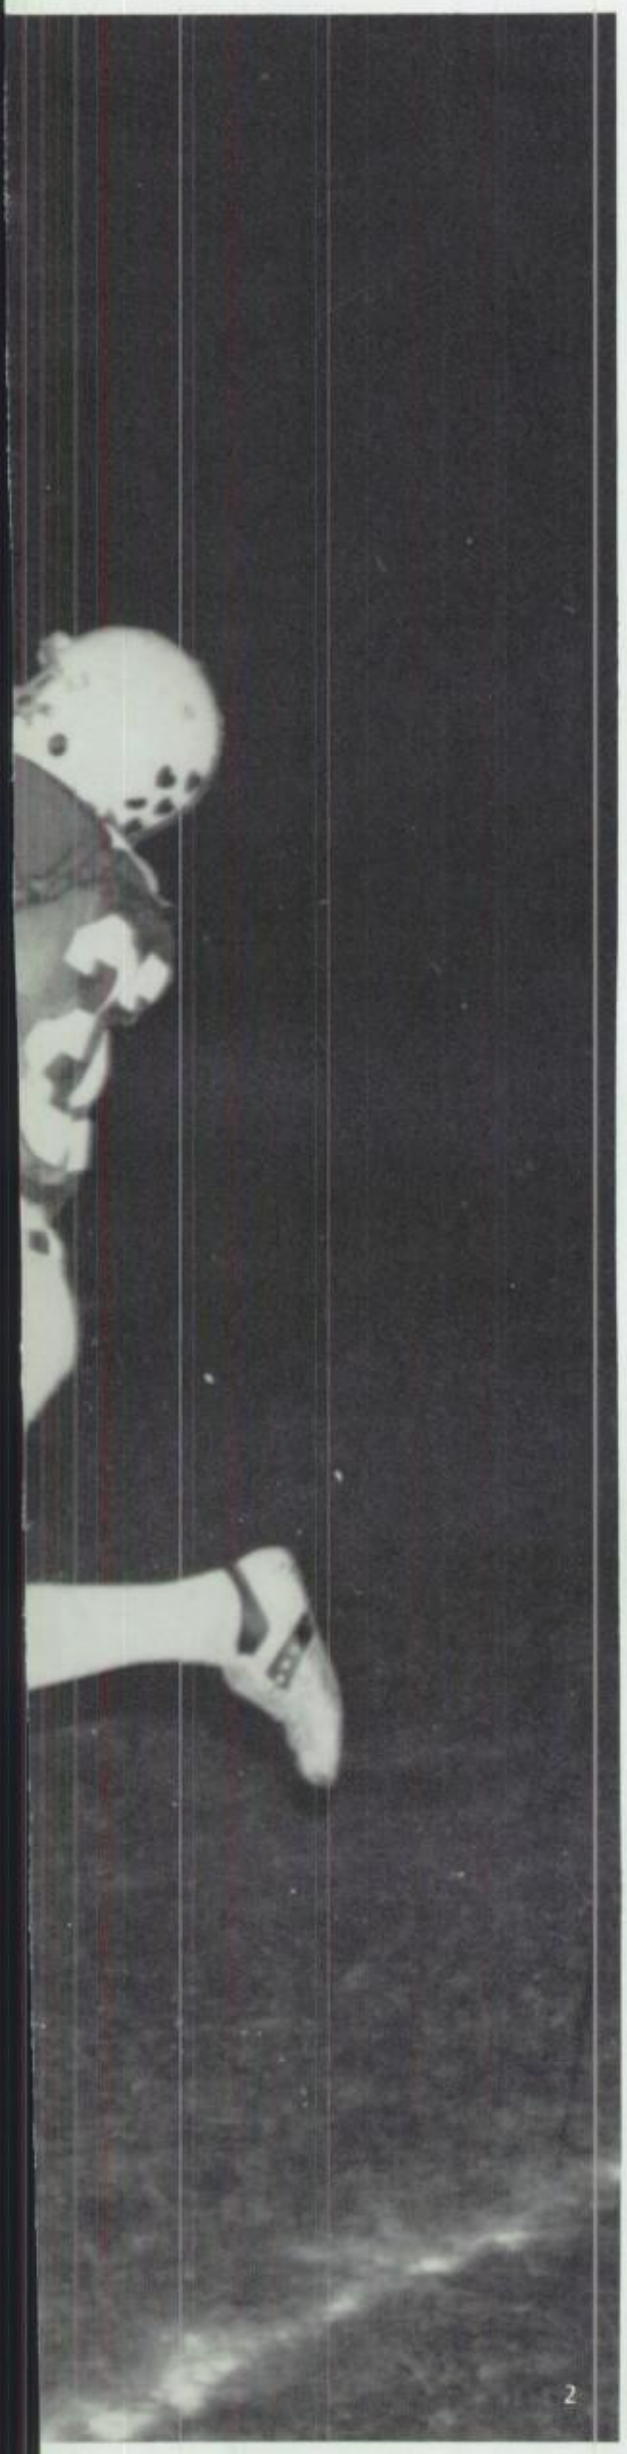
On October 24, 1980, between third and fourth periods, the Homecoming Rally got underway. Since it is traditional for the student body to wear their school colors on Homecoming Day, the senior class showed their spirit by holding blue and white balloons. The varsity football team was introduced to prove that Oakmont would win the game against Lincoln that night.

A highlight of the rally was an impromptu performance by several varsity football players who were very disappointed when the sophomore class was announced as the winning section. The players demonstrated their displeasure by stealing the spirit jug away from the pep squad and presenting it to their own class. But the possession was short-lived, as sophomore cheerleader Amy Johnson regained possession of the jug and brought it back over to the rightful winners.

The six queen candidates and their escorts were also introduced during the rally to help the student body decide who to vote for. Overall, the Homecoming Rally heightened the excitement for the big game that night.



1. VIKING RUNNING BACK Brian Graham gets tackled after making the winning touchdown to give Oakmont the win over Lincoln. 2. VARSITY PLAYER DAVID Reed receives a pass to gain many yards during the Homecoming contest. 3. QUARTERBACK DARRYL WEISS is walked off the field by Coach Todd Anderson after being injured in the second half. 4. MIKE HUCKABAY AND Randy West watch a moment of intense action between the Vikings and Zebras during the Homecoming tilt. 5. PLANNING AN IMPORTANT play during the huddle, varsity players hope that this is the decision that will give them the edge over Lincoln. 6. VARSITY FOOTBALL PLAYERS remove their helmets for the national anthem before the start of the Homecoming game.



Oakmont Scores Triple Win At Homecoming Games

Oakmont football teams had a total success in Homecoming competition this year. The freshman squad won their contest 18-6 over the Lincoln team, while the JV defeated Christian Faith from Yuba City since Lincoln didn't have a junior varsity this year. To add the third win, the varsity played a close, exciting game against the Zebras, ending up as victors 14-7.

Scoring the touchdowns for the varsity were running backs Brian Graham and Chris Sherk. Although the game was a success, one unhappy note was the injury of quarterback Darryl Weiss, who broke three ribs during the second half.

With three victories on the scoreboard, the Oakmont Vikings had a Homecoming to be proud of.

Jubilant Class Of 81 Wins Fourth Straight Competition At Reach Out Homecoming

As the highlight of the week-long Homecoming celebration, halftime of the varsity game was a big success.

In the float competition, the senior class won their fourth consecutive first place, setting a school record and winning them $80 for their treasury. Ski Club's creative entry won first place in club float competition for the $50 prize.

Theresa Cockrell was crowned queen, and her court included Kerrie Caldwell, Chris Dyer, Rebecca Hager, Jennifer Manley and Pam Wilson. The Viking Band, under the direction of Mr. Ritchey Hodge, gave a fine performance during halftime festivities.

Although challenged by the "Reach Out" homecoming theme, the students came through with creative ideas to make an interesting and exciting halftime for Homecoming 1980.

Oakmont Dances Switch To Live Rock And Roll Bands Replacing Recorded Music

Of all the social events at Oakmont, dances are the favorite. The dances this year moved away from recorded music and disc jockeys, and featured numerous live bands.

After-game dances, which were popular at the beginning of the football season, showed decreased attendance. But the special dances such as the Sadie Hawkins, the Snowfall Ball and the Junior Prom had a bigger participation than ever before.

One of the more popular bands this year was "Wizard," considered the number two rock and roll band in the Sacramento area. Other bands that played Oakmont dances were Flex, Jumpers and Epogy.

Sadie King Title Goes To Senior Scott Faber; Third Honor For Class of 1981

Senior Scott Faber was chosen king of the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance. The theme for this year's dance was "The Buckaroo Ball," chosen because of the popularity of Western clothes this year. Music was provided by the rock and roll band "Flex."

The Sadie is one of the most important dances of the year because it gives the girls a chance to ask the boys out. There are a lot of exciting things to do, contests to watch, prizes to win. A month of planning went into the dance on the part of Norse Notes staff members and students in Journalism 1.

Several different contests took place during the evening. Four males were selected to participate as representatives of their class in the annual king competition. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of senior Scott Faber as king. Contestants were judged on the best legs, their poise in answering a question on the spur of the moment, best outfit. Attending King Scott were junior Steve Christensen, sophomore Perry Albers, and freshman Deron Morillas.

In the best-dressed contests, senior Julie Baynton was the winner of the girls' division, while sophomore Tim Robinson and junior Mary Warrick were named the best-dressed couple. Dr. Ron Feist, Marryin' Sam, was there to marry the couples, but he had to stay an extra-long time because of the large attendance this year.

Angela Vasconcellos Wins 1981 Queen Freyja Crown

The 1981 Queen Freyja celebration was a great success, according to Spring Council. The student body was full of spirit at the rally and had a great attendance at the game. At the special rally, the candidates were introduced to the student body, giving everyone a last chance to decide who to vote for at lunch.

The varsity basketball team was victorious over their opponent, the Lindhurst Blazers in the big game that evening. The Vikings showed their spirit with great attendance, cheering them on to victory. At half time, Michelle Cottam sang "Seventeen" as the princesses, Darla Black, Shannon Carranza, Cassie Florance, Darla Kenney, Julie Tornatore, and Angela Vasconcellos were introduced. Last year's queen, Lori Godager, crowned Angela.

Wizard provided the rock and roll music at the after-game dance. Although the attendance was poor, the people who went enjoyed it.

1980 Soccer Team Shows Improvement: Third Place In Sierra Foothill League

The 1980 soccer season turned out to be very successful for the Vikings, as they set a new league record—seven wins and five losses—and ended in third place in the Sierra Foothill League. Cooperation and unity were the main factors in the improvement of the team, which showed its abilities in games like the Roseville night game where the Vikings lost by only one point, one of the highlights of the season.

Another event was the annual trip to Napa where the Vikings gained victories over the teams of Sonoma and Vintage high schools. Compared to last year, the team didn't depend on only a few individuals, but acted well as a whole. Still, some good individual efforts were made. Senior Brad Booker was top scorer with 22 goals. Two more aggressive players, senior halfback John Sylvester and junior fullback Ken Hohloch (nicknamed "The Train") received awards respectively for the best offensive and most inspirational players. They, along with senior goalie Craig Roediger and senior fullback Bob Van den Berg, formed the solid base for the team coached by Mr. Kevin Wherry. Wherry, who attended a soccer clinic at UC Davis, showed more experience in his second year as coach. He named senior fullback Bob Statham as the most dedicated player of the year.

Frosh Football Ends Year With Big Win Over Tigers

An overwhelming victory over the Roseville Tigers was the perfect way for the 1980 freshman football team to end their season. Dave Denzer took over as quarterback and led the team to a 22-6 win, thereby becoming the only football squad to defeat the Tigers this season. Overall the frosh team achieved three wins, five losses and one tie, but finished with a league record of three wins and three losses. Chris James was chosen Most Valuable Player, having scored four touchdowns rushing and six touchdowns passing. Bo Swift gained a total of 262 yards with an average of 5.7 yards per carry. Coaching this year's young Vikes were Ron Christian, Dave Denzer, Scott Johnson, Greg Sclater and Larry Dumas.

JV's Match Prior Record, Beat Lions In Homecoming

Although this year's JV squad was not as large in number as previous years' teams, the Vikings still managed to put together a respectable win-loss record, sporting four wins and five losses.

The two main goals for the 1980 squad were to improve the offense and to develop fundamental skills for competition at the varsity level. The potent offense was sparked by MVP Gordon Fellows, who caught 22 passes from quarterback Tom Carlson. The ground attack was equally potent with best lineman Marc Lucena blocking for the best running back, Tim Robinson. Lucena also doubled as linebacker, along with Dave Strickland, to lead the strong defense.

The JV's really had it all together for the Homecoming game against the Faith Christian Lions, slaughtering them 32-12. "These kids were fun to coach, because all 25 had a great attitude," commented Coach Gary Stringfellow.

'80 Varsity Football Team Hindered By Key Injuries

Frustration is a feeling the 1980 varsity football team became quite familiar with as they battled against numerous injuries as well as a controversial touchdown in achieving their fourth-place finish in SFL competition.

Although they got off to a good start by winning their second and third games against Rio Linda and Lindhurst, the excessive injuries to key players, both offensive and defensive lines, kept the Vikings from winning. The injury-plagued Oakmont team was never able to establish a permanent starting lineup.

Head coach Don DelGrande's most memorable moment of the season was the last two seconds of the Roseville game because it means a lot to be the city champs. The Vikings had scored an apparent touchdown to win the game over their biggest rivals, the RHS Tigers, only to be told that official time had run out prior to the score—a disappointing way to end the season.

Coach's Appreciation Award winner Chris Sherk was out for most of the season; nevertheless he became a team leader along with his senior teammates Brad Rasor, MVP, and Dave McDanniels, Defensive Player of the Year. Junior Mike Huckabay won the Scout Team Award for 1980.

'81 Cross Country Squads Prove Superiority Through Concentrated Team Efforts

Excellent team effort and cooperation made Oakmont's 1980 Cross Country successful with the varsity placing second at league, followed by second and a tie at fourth for the junior varsity and girls' teams respectively. Coach Ann Simpson feels that team spirit contributed significantly throughout the year.

The varsity team twice defeated its traditional rival, Roseville, but unfortunately feel twice to this year's top contender, Nevada Union. Nonetheless, the varsity did extremely well, as is reflected by their 9-win, 3-loss record.

Although team effort was important, five individuals of the 24-person squad provided the team with guidance, leadership and inspiration. They were varsity runners Allen Toms and Scott Muli, sophomores Dave Vanatta and Mark Smith, who both ran varsity and senior Pam Jensen representing the girls.

Oakmont has always had outstanding cross country teams and this year's team is no exception. The JV finished with an 8-win, 4-loss record and the girls were 5 and 7. Coach Simpson feels next year's varsity team will be potential league champions, which she attributes to the ability and competitivness of this year's sophomores.

Young Girls' Tennis Team Finishes Fourth In League

Coaching girls' tennis for the first time was a new and exciting experience for Coach Jack McGee. The team went 6-6 with a fourth-place finish in the Sierra Foothill League.

Coach McGee felt that since this year's team was dominated by freshmen and sophomores, the teams in the future years should be exceptionally strong. Sophomore MVP Elaine Royer was instrumental in the Viking team's effort.

Injuries to seniors Kara Aley and Lynn Little hurt the team, but the young Vikes pulled through with a 12-8 record overall this season.

OHS Vikes Go Undefeated Taking SFL Championship

After finishing the season with a 22-2 win-loss record, the 1980 varsity volleyball team not only went undefeated in league to take the Sierra Foothill League Championships, but they also brought the TOC to Oakmont for the first time in school history.

The league champion vikings were led by captains Angela Vasconcellos and Wendy Schlager. Both made first team and all-league. Amy Arwood, Kendra Silver and Danelle Lewelling all made the second team all league. Angela Vasconcellos was voted MVP, while teammates Wendy Schlager and Amy Arwood were voted outstanding setter and most valuable offensive player respectively.

The 1980 squad was one of the tallest and most athletic teams to every come out of Oakmont; this led to their great success against other teams in the league. Coach Linda Drever said, "They were the best team I have ever coached!"

The JV squad was also triumphant, taking the co-championship with a 10-2 record in league play.

The main goal for the JV squad was to use their skills in a combined effort to be successful. They were led by most improved player Jenny Maffi and best setter Karen Loper. Bonny Way was voted most inspirational player.

The JV's are looking forward to another successful season next year with a number of returning starter led by Jenny Maffi and Jana Pinney.

Oakmont Upsets Lindhurst, Topping Off 1981 Season

Senior MVP K.C. Ramos and senior Most Outstanding Wrestler Scott Jeter led the 1981 Varsity wrestling squad to a 4-3 record in league. Ramos took second place in the league tournament while juniors Mark Smith and Mark Willingham took third-place honors. Teammate Scott Jeter took fourth place. All four wrestlers advanced to Subsections at Rio Americano High School.

The highlight of the 1981 season came when the Vikings defeated the highlyrated Lindhurst Blazers in dual match competition. The attack was led by sophomore MVP Robby Stoeckmann and junior Steve Rose, both collecting pins in the victory.

This team lost a couple of close matches because they did not have a wrestler to fill the 245-pound weight class. Next year's team will have nine returning varsity matmen and should be a strong contender for the league title.

Wrestling Team Undergoes Several Coaching Changes

"1981 was a year of new experience," said Coach Pat Godwin. It was a new experience for the coaching staff because Pat Godwin handed over his head coaching title to long-time Oakmont teacher and wrestling enthusiast, Mr. Robert Delpippo. Delpippo, who had volunteered his services as assistant coach because Godwin was unable to attend many of the practices, later became head coach of the Oakmont wrestling team.

It was also a new experience for former Oakmont wrestler Craig Fay, who started his coaching career as assistant coach of the 1981 squad. Both Delpippo and Fay are looking forward to next year and another exciting year of coaching.

The J. V. team was handicapped by the lack of wrestlers to fill the heavier weight classes. Despite their disadvantage, they still managed to pull out wins over Lincoln, Marysville, and Lindhurst.

1. FRESHMAN BASKETBALL TEAM, front row: Mike Norton, Pat Keenan, Steve Newberry, Doug Beckham, Ryan Knight, Rodney Yates, Scott Leitner. Freshmen Prove Tough In First Season For Oakmont

This year's freshman basketball team showed surprising talent. With this year's league record of 10-4, Oakmont's team proved to be a dominating force in the Sierra Foothill League. Lindhurst gave the team their toughest game because of their remarkable quickness.

The Freshmen did a lot better than last year's team because of the team's good depth with more good athletes. This was partly because thirty-three boys went out for the team. The team also proved to be very united and enjoyed the games, even when they did not win. This is very important in many sports and will allow the players to go very far in future athletics. They showed much poise and confidence, and the coach, Mr. Greg Holmes, stated, "It was a pleasure coaching them."

Key Points For JV Squad Are Confidence And Team Play

Although this year's junior varsity team had many outstanding players, they finished with a league record of six wins and eight losses. In most of the games the team was within two or three point of winning; they played three overtime games and three double overtime games.

Some of the outstanding players were high scorer John Bertsch and Skip Moss for rebounding. The most aggressive players of the team were Gordon Fellows and Ed Flores. The overall outstanding player was MVP Andy Miller.

The team never gave up and the season proved to be a learning experience for all. By playing many non-league games, the team gained the confidence they needed to play at the varsity level next year. The junior varsity played as a team and many players sacrifieced individual honors to help contribute to that oneness.

Varsity Team Beats Placer First Time At Away Game

This year's varsity finished with a league record of nine wins, five losses, beating some of the best teams. The victory over Placer at Placer's gym came as a surprise and boosted the spirits of the Vikings. Placer had previously been unbeaten in their gym. Some contributing factors to the Varsity's nine wins were excellent team play and lots of crowd support. Coach Larry Brubaker felt that the trip to Arizona for a team camp at the beginning of the year proved to be helpful. He also said of this year's varsity, "They played closer to their ability than any team I have ever coached."

1. SENIOR BRAD RASOR shoots a free throw to bring the score of the Nevada Union game closer. 2. JUNIOR TIM SAVILLE resists the blocking efforts of his Roseville opponent and scores for the Vikings. 3. WITH HIS QUICK maneuvering, senior Troy Turner manages to slip past his opponent. 4. Girl Squads Rank On Top In League Basketball Play, Varsity Advances To TOC

The girls' basketball squads this year all had impressive seasons, with all three teams finishing high in regional play.

This year's varsity team, with a 12-2 league record and a 20-5 overall slate, is one of the fastest teams in recent years because of exceptionally gifted athletes and good team play. Senior MVP Amy Arwood led the Vikes with 456 points for a 22.8 point average. Angela Vasconellos, Betsy Donovan and Kathy Norton were noted for being the most productive players. The team advanced to TOC play, but after a valiant attempt were defeated 59-54.

With a league record of 10-4 and an overall record of 13-5, the J.V. squad this year was a very enthusiastic and hard working group. Coach Todd Anderson explained that this year's squad put out a total team effort all season long. Some of the productive players were Barbara Donovan, for her shooting and defensive play, and Laura Satorius, for her shooting and rebounding, both helped the team to a second-place finish in league.

With a 12-5 record overall, Coach Lonnie Grimes feels that the frosh team will be exceptionally good in the future, perhaps even making it to the TOC their Varsity year. He also feels that the most productive players are Connie Croft, and Paula Villarica. Coach Lonnie Grimes was very close to this year's team and didn't want the season to end.

Deadline Blues

'Twas the night before deadline, and all through the room,
All the students were working, expecting their doom.
It was two in the morning, the staff could not quit
And each one was praying his headline would fit.
The choppers weren't hung in their usual place,
They were all put to use for this critical race.
The staff was all trying to please Ms. Colón,
When she turned down a caption, the Pub I would moan.
And Barb in her frenzy and I in my mood,
Had just chewed our Keenan for sneaking in food.
When from the new room there arose such a roar,
I sprang from my desk and raced to the door.
And what to my bloodshot eyes should appear,
But twenty staff members all quivering with fear.
For Ms. Colón with her eyebrow raised high,
Placed hands on her hips and bellowed her cry:
"Now Kathy, now Castle, now Lindy and K.C.
You finish that copy before I go crazy!
I've been here so long that I'm getting gray hair.
Working past midnight is one giant nightmare!
Now April and Colin, and both Mark and Ken,
You're done taking pictures, so pick up a pen!
This deadline is due in the morning you see
And we're nowhere near finished at a quarter to three!
We have just four hours before Eldon arrives
I've become so nervous I'm getting the hives!"
She looked so funny with her face all aflame,
That I broke out in laughter — the staff did the same.
We rolled on the ground for three minutes or four,
Except Ms. Colón, who stood firm by the door.
She lectured us soundly and turned with a jerk.
So we gathered our senses and got back to work.
When Barb and I had returned to our seats,
We were flooded with questions about copy sheets.
Marianne and Sandy had finished their pages,
While Mark Smith and Pat were still in the first stages.
John and Michelle were discussing an ad sale
When Eldon arrived — and our faces turned pale.
He chuckled and asked for the deadline right then.
We told him that we'd have it finished by ten.
He said, "I'll be back in an hour or so
To pick up your work, have it ready to go!"
After giving this threat, he walked out the door.
An instant depression fell on 204.
"Just one short hour!" the entire staff shouted.
"There's no use in trying," so instead we just pouted.
But Melanie and Bob would not give up hope.
They kept right on working, refusing to mope.
John Akens and Kathi had also begun
To finish their finals to give to Eldon.
After five solid minutes of remorse and despair,
The whole staff got busy making their repairs.
They were writing and counting and drawing and cropping.
With ten minutes left they showed no signs of stopping.
When Eldon got back he was struck down in awe.
Every page was completed, not one had a flaw.
We packed all the pages and handed them in.
With a sigh of relief, he flashed us a grin.
We all smiled back weakly, too tired to speak
He said as he left us, "I'll see you next week!"
And we hear him exclaim as he drove by quite fast,
"It's the first deadline you've met, don't make it your last!"
